BRITISH PLAN TO TAX WAR WEALTH LEFT TO COMMONS

Large Section Of Public Opinion Finds It Just, Says Committee

REPORT FAVORS

Says Objections Should Be Discarded If Empire Needs The Money

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 15.—The report of the select committee on a tax on war wealth increases says: "After close examination of conflicting testimony the Committee concluded that the difficulties of the administration of such a tax were not insurmountable and that the amended scheme of the Board of Inland Revenue would be administratively practicable because the examination of tax payers' returns, the valuation of property and the assessment and collection of the duty could be effectively carried out, while the cost of administration and collection would be small.

"If the financial conditions of the country are such that it is urgently necessary to raise the sum of five hundred millions the objections against such a tax should not be allowed to stand in the way of its imposition. Moreover although the suggested tax is strongly opposed by the financial and commercial world there is a very large body of public opinion which regards it as just and necessary.

FINANCIAL CONDITIONS HAVE BEEN MODIFIED

"However financial conditions governing the problem have been largely modified since the Committee was appointed by the Budget proposals and the offer of new five to fifteen years Treasury bonds. Therefore the Committee is of opinion that the desirability and expediency of the tax must be left to the decision of the House of Commons."

London, May 13.—The Committee appointed to consider the practicability of a levy on war wealth, has reported in the affirmative. It suggests that such a levy would be best carried out by the adoption of the Inland Revenue Board scheme, which is estimated to yield £55,000,000 and will affect 75,000 persons. The Committee however strongly hold that the principle of a levy on capital which is involved is unsound and would harm industry. Opinion in business circles appears to favor the continuance of the excess profits duty rather than the war levy as likely to involve less disturbance of industry. The Association of British Chambers of Commerce has raised a strong protest against the levy.

Chief Jailer Under Arrest For Break At Chinese Prison

Chief jailer at the Second Provincial Penitentiary of Kiangsu Province has been placed under arrest and it to be tried as a result of the escape of 140 prisoners on March 21 when three warders and seven prisoners were killed, according to reports received in the Settlement yesterday. He is to be taken before the Procurate Court in the Chinese City.

The prisoners escaped from the penitentiary, which is situated a mile south of the Lungwha Pagoda, extinguishing the lights, turning in a false alarm of fire, overpowering their guards and breaking down the gate.

DARING MAIL ROBBER KILLED IN CHICAGO IN POLICE DUEL

Chicago, May 14.—A daring robbery took place on a train, running into Chicago today. A man entered the mail-van, intimidated the postal clerks and carried off packages containing $100,000 in cash. When the train reached Chicago, two policemen stopped the robber who shot one of them in the head with a revolver. He made his escape but was subsequently overtaken and shot dead.

Country Is Facing Crisis, Is Warning Of Speaker At China Association Meeting

People Are In Dangerous Frame Of Mind And Ripe For Upheaval View Given By Mr. P. W. Massey —Sees Menace Of Bolshevism

Warning that China is facing a crisis in its affairs and that a popular upheaval of serious proportions is a possibility was voiced yesterday in the address of Mr. Peter W. Massey, who presided at the annual meeting of the China Association. While the student movement is an unmistakable sign of the growth of public spirit among the Chinese the speaker pointed out that politically and financially the country is in as serious a plight as ever.

On the subject of the Consortium he said that Chinese officials appear to be willing to face administrative chaos rather than agree to the terms that have been laid down to grant foreign supervision of the expenditure of moneys advanced and in this connection he said the Government is now spending seven millions a month in excess of its income money blackmailed from the Central Government by the militarist faction.

The Chinese people, he declared, are in a dangerous frame of mind, for they are dissatisfied with the anarchy in the Government and are resentful over the activities of the Japanese. While he thought that a repetition of the events of 1900 was not to be feared, he asserted that the possibility of Bolshevist missionaries spreading tenets of their belief is by no means negligible. To combat the menace one means he said is by education along Western and preferably British lines and he announced the formation of a special committee of the Association that is to investigate how British educational influence may be advanced.

The new committee chosen at the meeting for the coming year is composed of Messrs. C. M. G. Burnie, O. M. Green, P. W. Massey, E. C. Pearce, and A. Brooke Smith, all re-elected, and Messrs. E. F. Mackay, C. G. S. Mackay, Duncan McNeill, F. W. Potter and C. J. Scott.

The Chairman's address follows:

"Gentlemen: The annual report has been in your hands for some days and I propose to follow the usual custom of dwelling shortly on the various matters referred to in the report and which have engaged the attention of your committee during the year under review.

"Since we met last May we have had the great pleasure of seeing back amongst us many of our members who have served with H. M.'s forces, some of them with decorations conferred for exceptional gallantry and distinguished services. In your name I offer them our welcome and our gratitude. They will join with us in sharing the ever-fragrant memory of our glorious dead.

MEMBERSHIP INCREASE

"Our membership shows a satisfactory increase of twenty-nine, although owing to the continued absence of some and many who are on leave, all the annual subscriptions due have not yet been collected.

"Your chairman, Mr. Simms, recently left for home, where he will take the opportunity of discussing with the London Committee various current topics of interest to the Association. Two other members of the committee also left for home during the year, namely Mr. A. D. Bell and Mr. A. C. Clear, Mr. G. T. Edkins has also left the port.

"Our Secretary, Mr. Master, resigned on March 31, in anticipation of leaving for a trip home. I wish to take this opportunity of placing on record our obligation to him for his able assistance and for the careful and complete records he has so untringly kept of the various activities of the Association. We wish him bon voyage and a safe return His place has been taken by Mr. C. D. Dixon who was appointed Acting Secretary as from April 1.

Washington, May 13.—The Senate resolution, declaring the state of war with Germany and Austria a an end, is being vigorously opposed by the Democrats. Senator Hitchcock declared in the Senate today that the adoption of Senator Knox's suggestion for a separate treaty with Germany would bring dishonor and ruin to the United States.

CARRANZA FORCES DRIVEN BACK BY MEXICAN REBELS

Last Federal Stronghold On United States Border To Be Surrenderd

(Reuter's Service)

New York, May 14.—According to a telegram from Vera Cruz, General Carranza's forces have been driven from their positions at San Marcos.

A telegram from Brownsville, Texas states that it is understood that in accordance with an agreement reached between General Carranza and the rebels, the last Federal stronghold on the United States border will be surrendered today.

London, May 14.—The report that President Carranza has been captured by the revolutionaries is unfounded. It transpires that he is holding out near San Marcos, (in the State of Guerrero, on the Pacific coast). Meanwhile the rebels are rushing up reinforcements and artillery.

The Times New York correspondent telegraphs, "The revolutionaries in Mexico are forming a provisional government, Senor de la Huerta, the provisional President, is described as an educated man of studious habits, who has several times served as temporary governor of states which needed reorganising."

Australia Would Present Her Views To Britain On Anglo-Japanese Alliance

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 13.—Speaking at a luncheon of the Empire Parliamentary Association in the House of Commons today, Mr. W. A. Watt, the Australian Commonwealth Treasurer, referring to the doctrine of "White Australia" and the problem of the defense of Australia, said that, if there were to be conversations in the near future beween Japan and Great Britain, the Australian Government wanted to make its views known to British statesmen.

London, May 13.—The Times' Washington correspondent states that, when the Anglo-Japanese Alliance is renewed next July, it is suggested in the United States that a provision should be inserted more effectively safeguarding Anglo-American relations.

It is also suggested that the scope of the phrase, "special interests" in China, should be limited on the lines of the wording of the Ishii-Lansing Agreement.

It is urged that special interest should be conceded to Japan in China only when it is "recognised as distinctly defensive and based on geographical proximity and is clearly distinguished from an assertion of paramount political interest."

FINLAND WILL JOIN POLES IN FIGHT ON BOLSHEVIKI

Fate Of Soviet Republic At Stake; Silence Of Moscow Ominous

Two Russian Regiments Wiped Out; Radicals Drowned In Dnieper

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 14.—It is reported that Finland has decided to join the Poles and Esthonians in the offensive against the Bolsheviks.

London, May 14.—Seven Zeppelins flew over Warsaw on May 9. It is believed that they were carrying German staff officers to reorganise the Bolshevik Army. The Poles declare that this is a violation of the Treaty of Versailles.

London, May 14.—It is learned from an authoritative source that the Polish Prime Minister, M. Skulski, has intimated Poland's readiness to resume peace negotiations with Russia.

Paris, May 14.—Interviewed in Rome, M. Patek, the Polish Foreign Minister, declared that Poland had no imperialist aims. She claimed the dis-annexition of the territories which Poland possessed in 1772. The Polish capture of 160 locomotives and two thousand guns, he added, proved that the Bolsheviks were preparing to invade Poland but, as soon as Poland's objects were attained she was ready to negotiate with the Bolsheviks.

BORDER STATES FIGHT RUSS-GERMAN ALLIANCE

Copenhagen, May 14.—A telegram from Reval states that M. Vassilevski, the Polish representative in Esthonia, said that the Polish offensive was part of a program for an alliance of the Russian border States against the German-Russian alliance. He added that Poland would receive East Galicia for helping the Ukraine. M. Vassillivski's task is to induce Esthonia to join the alliance which already comprises Poland, Finland and Rumania.

London, May 14.—There is still no news from Moscow. The silence has been general from the whole of Russia since May 9.

Marconis declare that the situation is abnormal, and that there has been no such stoppage since the first Russian revolution. Messages were freely received up to Sunday evening (May 9). It is pointed out that there are at least three high power wireless stations at Moscow. All the newspapers' Russian experts, except the Daily Telegraph's, are convinced that something has happened in Russia. There is no alarm, however, with regard to the British Labor Delegation to Russia which is known to have been at Reval on May 10.

MOSCOW PANIC-STRICKEN OVER DNEIPER DEBACLE

Meanwhile the official Bolshevik organ Krasnaya Gazeta reveals the fact that the Dnieper debacle has caused a panic in leading circles in Moscow. The organ declares that the very fate of the Soviet Republic is at present at stake and that the Polish offensive is the severest blow that Bolshevism has suffered, and it demands severe punishment of the Commissaries responsible.

Warsaw, May 14.—An official Polish communique states: In the Kieff sector the enemy continues to make desperate but unsuccessful attacks with the object of retaking at any cost the places we have occupied."

"East of the Dnieper the enemy has been completely defeated in fighting near Rzeszyca. Two enemy regiments were annihilated, a brigade commander and a commissary were killed, 400 Bolshevisks were drowned in the Dnieper, four enemy armored boats were sunk and two thousand prisoners were taken."

"Polish detachments in Podolia have defeated the first Ukrainian Soviet brigade."

Peking, May 16.—As the position of Chinese merchants at Nikolaievsk is dangerous owing to the fighting between Japanese and local Russians, the Chinese Government have decided to send vessels there to bring back to China all merchants desiring such assistance.

Slain Mayor Of Cork

Thomas MacCurtain. INTERNATIONAL

Thomas MacCurtain, Lord Mayor of Cork was slain in the doorway of his home by a party of unidentified men. The Lord Mayor, carrying an infant son in his arms, answered a ring at his door. Opening the door he was confronted by the masked men who knocked the infant from his arms and then shot him to death. The British authorities maintain that MacCurtain was slain by members of the Sinn Fein. Feeling ran high in Cork following the murder, and serious outbreaks were suppressed only by the quick arrival of troops.

THREE SHIPLOADS OF WAIFS COMING OUT OF SIBERIA

Colony Of Children American Red Cross Has Cared For To Be Sent Home

Over a thousand Russian children who were orphaned in the reign of terror that followed the revolution in Russia and who have been cared for by the American Red Cross since that period are to be brought to Shanghai on their way back home in the course of the next several weeks, according to plans of the Red Cross that have been made public.

When the Tsar's government toppled and fell and the efforts of the moderate elements that held power for a brief space in Petrograd were overwhelmed in the red tide of Bolshevism many hundreds of children in the Russian capital were snatched from homes of comfort, as the fury of the radicals was turned chiefly against the official classes. It was the American Red Cross in Petrograd that came to the aid of these children in this period of stress and when the reign of terror that the Bolshevists inaugurated fell upon Petrograd and all who could fled from the city the American Red Cross kept its little army of waifs together and sent it along with the great tide of refugees that surged out of European Russia and sought safety in Siberia.

TAKEN TO OMSK

These children eventually were taken all the way to Omsk by the American Red Cross and they were established there in a little colony through the period of the Kolchak regime. When that regime began to totter and it was realised that the advancing Bolshevists were about to take Omsk the colony of children again was removed from danger, this time all the way to the sea coast, to Vladivostok. In the past several months they have been kept there.

The colony of children with their Red Cross teachers and guardians found a home in a big hospital structure that had been erected by the Czecho-Slovak forces on a height on Russian Island after the Czechs had occupied the port. For the purpose of caring for the colony of children this hospital and adjacent troops barracks were turned over to the American Red Cross.

THREE SHIPS OFFERED

When the decision was reached to remove American army forces and withdraw the American Red Cross from Siberia the question of what was to become of the colony of children arose to be solved and it was decided to send them back to Petrograd where an effort will be made to find relatives in as many cases as possible or to have the children placed under the care of Russian authorities. Russian officials at Vladivostok have agreed to supply three ships of the Russian Volunteer fleet to carry out this project. One of these is to be the Penza, another the Astracan and a third is yet to be designated. The three vessels are to leave Vladivostok with the children the last

IRELAND IS SWEPT BY NEW WAVE OF CRIME

Reign Of Lawlessness Follows British Plan For Sterner Policy

RAIDERS MASKED

Eighteen Police Barracks And Five Income Tax Offices Destroyed

ROB MAIL TRAIN

Britain Rushes Troops To Erin; Constables To Have Military Guards

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 14.—Within a few hours of the publication of the interview with Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, in which he said that he was a friend of Ireland, there was a frenzied outburst of organised crimes, numbering over a hundred, all over Ireland.

The Lord Chancellor, Lord Birkenhead speaking in London yesterday evening declared that "wholly exceptional steps" were being taken at this moment to send reinforcements to the Irish Constabulary. Lord Birkenhead indicated that there would be a military guard for every policeman in Ireland. It this connection it is understood that large military forces are being despatched to Ireland.

London, May 14.—The bulletin of outrages committed in Ireland yesterday as supplied to Dublin Castle shows that eighteen more police barracks and five income-tax offices were destroyed. The town hall at Maynooth, Co. Kildare, was destroyed by fire today, explosives being used.

London, May 14.—Further minor outrages are reported from Ireland including the burning down of the Cashel Court House. Reinforcements to the Irish Constabulary are arriving from England.

INCOME TAX FILES BURNED BY RAIDERS

London, May 13.—The Income Tax Office, housed in the Scottish Provident Building at Belfast, was raided by masked men yesterday evening. Two clerks who were working overtime were overpowered and bound. The raiders then proceeded to empty all the shelves and desks, piling the income tax documents on the floor where they saturated them with petrol and set fire to them and decamped. No arrests have yet been made in connection with the raid.

Three more police barracks in County Dublin were burned yesterday evening. The customs offices at Bantry were burned down this morning. Armed and masked men held up two mail vans in the Thurles district (Co. Tipperary), searched the mails and seized a quantity of documents. Other armed and masked men held up the mail train from Cork today and seized the Constabulary letters.

London, May 13.—A series of daring outrages are reported to have been committed yesterday in all parts of Ireland, indicating careful and methodical organisation.

POLICE BARRACKS ARE BURNED AND BLOWN UP

It is suggested that Mr. Bonar Law's statement in the House of Commons yesterday (when he said that General Sir Nevil Macready, Commander-in-Chief in Ireland, had already taken steps to ensure greater co-operation between police and military in Ireland and "had many other suggestions which would be carried out,") was the signal for an outbreak of lawlessness which took the form of burning and blowing up police barracks, amongst other places at Carrickbeg, Co. Waterford, and Commons Road, Co. Cork, and of raids on Customs, excise and income tax officers at Downpatrick, Co. Down, Bantry, Co. Cork, Londonderry and elsewhere, for the destruction of official documents.

At Downpatrick, Canon Wilkinson, a minor canon of Down Cathedral, was shot in the thigh. At Strabane, Co. Tyrone, a disturbance occurred between Orangemen and Nationalists in which an ex-soldier was mortally wounded, expiring shortly after. The barracks at Bessborough, Co. Kilkenny were also burned down and the telegraphs and telephones in the neighborhood cut, dislocating an important line of communication between Dublin and the provinces.

CORK, CLARE, KERRY AT RAIDERS' MERCY

London, May 13.—The Daily Telegraph declares that a well-informed personage, explaining Mr. Bonar Law's statement in the the House of Commons yesterday on the Irish question, foreshadowed a more vigorous policy towards Ireland with regard to the suppression of lawlessness.

Meanwhile the latest news from Ireland reaffirms that every concession and every move, bearing any resemblance to a concession, is interpreted by the assassins as weakness and is merely encouraging the whole army of criminals who now have Cork, Clare and Kerry at their mercy. Sir Hamar Greenwood, the Chief Secretary for Ireland, interviewed at Dublin said that, as an instance of his friendship for Ireland, since his arrival he had not signed a single deportation order and had released many persons arrested on suspicion, including Alderman O'Brien. He said that there was perfect unanimity in the Irish Executive.

London, May 13.—In the House of Commons today, replying to Captain Wedgwood Benn, Mr. Bonar Law said that no deaths had occurred among persons imprisoned by the Government without charge or trial. The Government had decided to have the circumstances of such arrests examined by an independent judicial body.

Berlin, May 13.—A Warsaw telegram states that the Rumanian statesman, M. Take Jonescu, has arrived in the Polish capital in order to negotiate a Polish-Rumanian alliance. The Poles declare that Rumania will form an army of 160,000 men in support of the Polish offensive against Russia.

Affecting Scenes At Obsequies For Swedish Princess

London, May 13.—Enormous crowds witnessed the funeral today at Stockholm of the Crown Princess of Sweden. The ceremonies were most imposing and affecting.

The mourners included the Swedish Royal Family, the King of Norway and the King of Denmark Prince Arthur of Connaught and the Earl of Onslow, representing King George.

A detachment of British marines assisted in lining the route.

The funeral was conduced by the Archbishop of Upsala and an English chaplain. The rituals of both churches were used.

Memorial services were held in various centers in England, including Westminster Abbey and the Chapel Royal.

BRITAIN RAISES SUGAR PRICE TO AVOID SUBSIDY

Will Go From Tenpence To One And Three—Cost Of Mutton Will Be Reduced

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 14.—The shortage of sugar in the United Kingdom is causing the Government serious concern. It is stated that the price will have to be increased from tenpence to one and threepence a pound in order to avoid the necessity for a subsidy.

London, May 14.—Mr. Charles McCurdy, the Minister of Food, issued a statement today regarding the glut of meat imported into the United Kingdom from Australia. He explains that this is due to the rapid diminution of the requirements of the Allied forces on the termination of the war. The British people, the Minister says, are for the time being eating half a million tons less fresh meat a year than normally and only eating three pounds now for every four pounds before the war. The only apparent explanation is that war-time habits have not yet been forgotten.

The Government, Mr. McCurdy states, have decided to reduce the wholesale price of mutton from the all-round figure of ninepence per pound to prices ranging from sixpence halfpenny to ninepence while the control of retail prices will be removed. The Minister is of opinion that this drastic reduction will tend to steady and even lower prices of other commodities. He adds that only one half of one percent of all meat handled has been condemned.

WOULD STABILISE WORLD GRAIN MART

Washington, May 13.—The Wheat Director, Mr. Barnes, will convene a representative conference of Government officials and a congress of the leaders of the railroad owners for May 19 to consider plans for stabilising the world's grain market after the closing down of the United States Grain Corporation, on June 1.

FRENCH RAILWAY STRIKE MOVEMENT GROWING WEAKER

All Workers Expected To Resume Jobs Soon—Situation In Paris Is Normal

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, May 13.—There were no noteworthy developments yesterday in the French strike situation. The examining magistrates are investigating the documents, seized at the office of General Confederation of Labor.

The majority of the strike movements are hourly growing weaker and it is thought that by the end of the week nearly all the strikers will be back at work.

In Paris yesterday there was hardly a trace of a transport workers' strike expect for the fact that there were few taxi-cabs on the streets. The latest threat of the extremists is a strike in the Paris gasworks. The employes have received the order to stop work tomorrow morning. The gas company however is unperturbed and declares that all necessary steps have been taken to ensure a satisfactory supply of gas in the event of a strike.

Paris, May 14.—The labor situation in France continues to improve, although the gas-workers, joiners and upholsterers are due to strike today.

New York, May 13.—The Socialist National Convention today passed a resolution condemning the French Government's decision to dissolve the General Confederation of Labor.

Students Resume Classes After Striking One Month

Deliberative Council Issues Manifesto On Peking's Plan To Destroy Educational System

Students in Shanghai resumed their classes yesterday after striking one whole month. The decision was made last Friday by the Deliberative Council of the China National Students' Federation, which issued on Sunday the following manifesto:

"To the misfortune of our country, traitors are usurping the power of office by means of foreign aid. Our Eastern neighbor, taking hold of this rare opportunity, is exercising its aggressive policy. Besides the secret treaties which are not yet known to the public, there are the Twenty-one Demands, the Military Pact, the Shantung Arrangement, the Kaohsu and Shun-tsi Railway agreements and the exchange of notes on the four railways in Manchuria and Mongolia, each of which is sufficient to destroy the sovereignty of our nation.

"We, students, prompted by our own conscience and pained at the prospect of a subdued country, hence began our efforts for our diplomatic victory and against the traitors. The return en bloc of the students in Japan two years ago and the various moves instituted by the students here last Summer were part and parcel of the general movement.

STUDENTS OPPRESSED

"In January of this year, Japan addressed a note to the Peking Government, requesting for the direct negotiations over the Shantung controversy. In confirmation with our refusal to sign the German Treaty of Peace, there is absolutely no ground for negotiation with Japan over Shantung. To our great surprise, Peking accepted the note and willingly prepared itself to sell our country. This is within the knowledge of the men in the streets.

"Consequently, the branch Students Unions in the various places severally declared their opposition against direct negotiation. But the Peking Government belittled the public will and absolutely ignored the opposition. Moreover, it oppressed the patriotic students.

"On February 27, requests were received from the Student Unions in Peking, Tientsin, Shantung, Hunan, Nanking and Japan to open a discussion on the question of relief. Accordingly, the chairman of the Deliberative Council issued a call to all the Student Unions, which constitute the Students' Federation, to hold a meeting in Shanghai on March 20.

"The meeting was postponed for a week on account of the lack of a quorum at the appointed time. When the conference was finally begun, however, the diplomatic questions were carefully considered and discussed. Resolutions were passed on March 31 to send an ultimatum to the North Government, giving it a time limit within which to reject the Japanese note, to nullify the Military Pact and to abrogate all the Sino-Japanese secret treaties signed since the fourth year of the Republic. It was stated in the message that the final steps would be taken if no satisfaction was obtained.

NO DEFINITE SUPPORT

"While the advisor speaks with sincerity, the listener takes no heed at all. We were compelled therefore to suspend our classes on April 14 in accordance with the decision of the Deliberative Council in order to stimulate the interest of the various bodies of men to safeguard the nation.

"A month has elapsed since we began our efforts. Due perhaps to our weakness in propaganda, we received no definite material support except sympathetic messages from different organisations. Empty words of course cannot save one's nation.

"The diplomatic situation meanwhile becomes more critical. The destruction of our nation is in sight. It was fully our intention to exert all our efforts and forward our movement with what little energy that remains within us. Not for a moment have we abandoned our watch word 'don't neglect your efforts for national salvation while you are searching for education; don't forget your search for education while you are working for national salvation.' But when we are forced to take our choice, we would rather sacrifice education for our nation, and would not neglect our duties as citizens of the Republic just for the sake of education. This thought we had expressed in our second circular telegram.

TO RESUME CLASSES

"However, the ever-wicked Government, knowing that nothing could check the onward movement of the students has begun its attempt to destroy the entire educational system at its very root. It arrested the students. It sealed up the premises of the Students' Unions. It dismissed the students from their schools. It stopped the strikers from securing their promotion in class work. Above all, it threatened to close up all the public schools throughout the country unless the students in them resume their work immediately.

"By so doing, the Peking Government would kill two birds with one stone. It would secure all the educational funds of the nation and utilise them for military expenses. Its plan is crafty. Its motive is most wicked.

"Should we continue on our original policy, we would be, like the silkworm, building our own prison cells for our enemies. We would be falling into their trap. We are aware of the fact that educational institutions in Hunan are now but grass growing sites. We are pained to think of the consequences!

"Education is the foundation of a nation. It can tolerate no destruction such as already planned.

"Therefore, the Deliberative Council has passed a resolution to resume classes on Monday, May 17, in order to prevent the traitors from using the strike as a weapon to destroy the system of education in China and in order at the same time to carry on our original plans for national salvation.

"We earnestly hope that the people of this nation will remember the precept that each individual is responsible for the success or destruction of his nation and will refrain from remaining neutral in the fight for liberty. Then and only then can the diplomatic injustice be removed and the treacherous militarists be eliminated. So long as we have our breath, let us be faithful to our aim!"

versal expressions of regret and esteem. The sentiments of this Association were made known to him in a manner which is still fresh in your memory and which is fully recorded in the report. We are glad to hear since that Earl Curzon, H.M.'s Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, has written him a special letter of thanks for the invaluable services he has rendered to his country.

"Your committee had the privilage of entertaining his successor, Mr. Beilby Alston C.B., to dinner on his arrival in Shanghai and they are led to hope for a continuance of that spirit of cordial co-operation which has always characterised the relations of the China Association with his distinguished predecessor.

CHINESE AFFAIRS

"It is not necessary for me to add much to what is set forth in the report under this heading. This great land of paradox still presents the most Chinese of puzzles to the political onlooker. It is difficult for even the most experienced China hand to be anything more than a spectator where Chinese politics are concerned. However we cannot but observe with interest the working of that small leaven of progress which is now most surely swelling the lump. Public spirit in China showed unmistakable signs of growth during the past year. Perhaps the chief manifestation of this is the student movement.

"Politically and financially China is in as bad a morass as ever, indeed, many will say it is in a worse. But to my mind it is but the darkness before the dawn. I find in looking over the past reports of the Association that we have always been prone to take rather a gloomy view of Chinese affairs. Public bodies always do. But black as we have painted Chinese politics in our report I would wish to leave with you a note of optimism and to assure our Chinese friends that black as we may paint them politically we stand ready to sympathise with and assist them over the rough and stony way which lies before them to the goal of a regenerated China, a goal which we can all visualise, if only they will persevere."

The Chairman then went on to comment on the present situation of the Shantung question and outlined the attitude which the Association had taken towards it. He also touched on the impending question of the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

ON THE CONSORTIUM

Continuing the Chairman said: "Reference has also been made in the Report to the visit of Mr. Lamont to Peking and since that was written this distinguished financier has come and gone, and the excellent advise he gave the Chinese, unpalatable though it undoubtedly was, cannot help but have some salutary effect. The officials are ardently desirous of contracting loans but are equally sincere in their dislike of the control which they know will be enforced if any is lent. They appear willing to face the financial and administrative chaos which refusal of the Consortium terms will bring about rather than allow control over the expenditure of loan funds.

"The appalling selfishness and folly of such conduct can easily be appreciated. At the present moment the Chinese Government is spending about 7 million dollars every month in excess of its income. This money is blackmailed out of the Central Government by the various Military Commanders. Militarism is the source of all Chinese troubles and little can be hoped for until this is removed. It behoves all of us to do what lies in our power to strengthen the hands of the Consortium who are prepared to help China in the only way which can do her any lasting good. We want to see a strong China, a united China and an enlightened China and the program which the Consortium has laid down for itself is the one best calculated to attain this high ideal.

CHINESE ARE RESTIVE

"I believe that we may be on the eve of great things in China. The enormous majority of the Chinese are in a dangerous frame of mind. They are profoundly dissatisfied with the anarchy which prevails in the Government; the policy of the military faction which has hitherto dominated the Japanese Government has provoked the most bitter resentment throughout China, they realise the appalling condition of China's finances and they are without any hope of a remedy. The whole political power of the Northern party is in the hands of a few Generals; the Southern party is split up with many factions and guerilla warfare is proceeding amongst the various chiefs who can steal sufficient money to pay for their arms. There is no man and no party in China which has either the confidence or the respect of the people.

"It is this frame of mind which produces great national upheavals and though I do not fear any repetition of the events of 1900, the possibility of Bolshevist missionaries spreading their tenets in China is by no means negligible. One of the best means of combating this is by education on Western and preferably British lines and it is pertinent that I should here refer to the formation of a special committee, which has been formed on the instigation of the British Chamber of Commerce and on which this Association is represented, which has the special duty of enquiring into how British educational influence in China can best be advanced.

MUST NOT LAG

"When one views the great advances made by America, and lately by France, in educating on their own lines the youth of China, it is patent that we must not lag behind, as such education will have a great influence on the Chinese, with whom those who follow us will have to deal. It is probable that the outcome of the committee's deliberations will mean that the British community out here will be asked to give generous financial support and if this is so I hope that such appeal will be received sympathetically by the members of this Association.

"The committee will also have the task of considering the needs of the British Medical Missions in China, who have been lately in sore straits for the necessary funds for carrying on what is undoubtedly not only a great civilising work, but which has been and will continue to be of great value in maintaining our national prestige.

"There are those who hold the opinion that this Association has outlived its usefulness and that now that we have a live British Chamber of Commerce the Association has lost its "raison d'etre."

"Gentleman, I am not one of those. The Chamber of Commerce with its excellent organisation is able to handle purely commercial questions with a thoroughness and efficiency which this Association could never aspire to do, but there are many spheres of usefulness which can more properly be filled by an Association which has a personnel such as this. The Association gives a medium of expression to every British subject of good character and reputation in the Port, and is the only Association collectively representing the individual elements of the various nations which go to make up the British Empire.

OTHER ACTIVITIES

"Our report sets out fully what little has been accomplished and a great deal that still remains to be done in the important matter of the augmentation of Consular salaries.

"The recent annual meeting of the Ratepayers will have left this question fresh in your memories, and the policy recommended by your Committee of the appointment of an advisory or consultative Chinese Committee has been adopted.

"The question of the entertainment of men returned from active service was considered by the Committee during the year, and after consultation with the Committee of the United Services Association, it was decided that members of the China Association should be asked to subscribe to the funds of the United Services Association. I am happy to record that a very gratifying response was made to our appeal, no less a sum than Tls. 2,600 having been received.

FURTHER AID GIVEN

"In this connection I shall shortly propose that the sum of Tls. 565.50 which now stands to the credit of the Volunteer fund, be also donated to the United Services Association. The termination of the War having relieved us of further calls upon this fund, I feel that no happier object could be served than by donating it to the organisation which has been formed for the express purpose of assisting returned men and their families in case of need.

"Other matters dealt with in the report are those of light weight copper coinage and trade marks in China.

"Our report for the year is perhaps not quite so long as usual and while we have had a comparatively quiet yaer a great deal of the work done by your Committee is of a nature which does not permit of publication even in a confidential report, but the records of our work are on file in the Secretary's office where members can make themselves acquainted with them and the Secretary will be only too glad to inform members of our activities in any direction of which information is desired.

"We started the financial year with a debit of Tls. 5.87 and we close with a small credit of Tls. 45.45.

"We are indebted to Mr. L. D. Lemaire for kindly auditing the accounts.

"I beg to propose the adoption of the report and accounts and I shall be glad to answer to the best of my ability and questions relating to them which members may wish to put."

The colony of children has been one of the charges of Dr. H. V. Davidson, who is in charge of refugee relief work in Siberia and has been under the direction of Miss Florence Farmer, who is well known in China as a mission worker and was one of the number who went from here to Siberia to aid in the work of the Red Cross there. It is presumed she will accompany the children on their coming journey. Whether the long voyage around the continent will be made by the three vessels that will set out from Vladivostok or whether the children will be put aboard other vessels here has not been disclosed. It is possible that they may be sent back to Petrograd by way of America.

Mixed Court Notes

A broker accused of obtaining 100 barrels of cement, valued at $510, by false pretenses from a contractor's godown at Pootung was released yesterday when the complainant stated that he was unable to induce his godown keeper to testify. It has been charged that in the absence of the contractor a postcard arrived from another firm ordering the cement and that the broker used the card as a means of obtaining the material from the godown. Then, it was alleged, he sold the cement to other persons.

Theft of clothing valued at $100 resulted in a sentence of four years imprisonment and expulsion for a coolie yesterday. The man had been convicted 12 times previously.

Two men and a woman charged with thefts in the Bubbling Well district were before the court yesterday. One man was sentenced to two years imprisonment and the other to 18 months. The woman was released after she had sworn that although she pawned the articles she did not know they were stolen.

Two pickpockets who have been operating in the Sinza district were sentenced to 18 months each.

An apprentice who is accused of stabbing the chief accountant of a rice shop at Soochow and Chekiang Roads was called before the court yesterday but his case was remanded for two weeks.

CORK, CLARE, KERRY AT RAIDERS' MERCY

London, May 13.—The Daily Telegraph declares that a well-informed personage, explaining Mr. Bonar Law's statement in the the House of Commons yesterday on the Irish question, foreshadowed a more vigorous policy towards Ireland with regard to the suppression of lawlessness.

Meanwhile the latest news from Ireland reaffirms that every concession and every move, bearing any resemblance to a concession, is interpreted by the assassins as weakness and is merely encouraging the whole army of criminals who now have Cork, Clare and Kerry at their mercy. Sir Hamar Greenwood, the Chief Secretary for Ireland, interviewed at Dublin said that, as an instance of his friendship for Ireland, since his arrival he had not signed a single deportation order and had released many persons arrested on suspicion, including Alderman O'Brien. He said that there was perfect unanimity in the Irish Executive.

London, May 13.—In the House of Commons today, replying to Captain Wedgwood Benn, Mr. Bonar Law said that no deaths had occurred among persons imprisoned by the Government without charge or trial. The Government had decided to have the circumstances of such arrests examined by an independent judicial body.

Berlin, May 13.—A Warsaw telegram states that the Rumanian statesman, M. Take Jonescu, has arrived in the Polish capital in order to negotiate a Polish-Rumanian alliance. The Poles declare that Rumania will form an army of 160,000 men in support of the Polish offensive against Russia.

Affecting Scenes At Obsequies For Swedish Princess

London, May 13.—Enormous crowds witnessed the funeral today at Stockholm of the Crown Princess of Sweden. The ceremonies were most imposing and affecting.

The mourners included the Swedish Royal Family, the King of Norway and the King of Denmark Prince Arthur of Connaught and the Earl of Onslow, representing King George.

A detachment of British marines assisted in lining the route.

The funeral was conduced by the Archbishop of Upsala and an English chaplain. The rituals of both churches were used.

Memorial services were held in various centers in England, including Westminster Abbey and the Chapel Royal.

BRITAIN RAISES SUGAR PRICE TO AVOID SUBSIDY

Will Go From Tenpence To One And Three—Cost Of Mutton Will Be Reduced

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 14.—The shortage of sugar in the United Kingdom is causing the Government serious concern. It is stated that the price will have to be increased from tenpence to one and threepence a pound in order to avoid the necessity for a subsidy.

London, May 14.—Mr. Charles McCurdy, the Minister of Food, issued a statement today regarding the glut of meat imported into the United Kingdom from Australia. He explains that this is due to the rapid diminution of the requirements of the Allied forces on the termination of the war. The British people, the Minister says, are for the time being eating half a million tons less fresh meat a year than normally and only eating three pounds now for every four pounds before the war. The only apparent explanation is that war-time habits have not yet been forgotten.

The Government, Mr. McCurdy states, have decided to reduce the wholesale price of mutton from the all-round figure of ninepence per pound to prices ranging from sixpence halfpenny to ninepence while the control of retail prices will be removed. The Minister is of opinion that this drastic reduction will tend to steady and even lower prices of other commodities. He adds that only one half of one percent of all meat handled has been condemned.

WOULD STABILISE WORLD GRAIN MART

Washington, May 13.—The Wheat Director, Mr. Barnes, will convene a representative conference of Government officials and a congress of the leaders of the railroad owners for May 19 to consider plans for stabilising the world's grain market after the closing down of the United States Grain Corporation, on June 1.

FRENCH RAILWAY STRIKE MOVEMENT GROWING WEAKER

All Workers Expected To Resume Jobs Soon—Situation In Paris Is Normal

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, May 13.—There were no noteworthy developments yesterday in the French strike situation. The examining magistrates are investigating the documents, seized at the office of General Confederation of Labor.

The majority of the strike movements are hourly growing weaker and it is thought that by the end of the week nearly all the strikers will be back at work.

In Paris yesterday there was hardly a trace of a transport workers' strike expect for the fact that there were few taxi-cabs on the streets. The latest threat of the extremists is a strike in the Paris gasworks. The employes have received the order to stop work tomorrow morning. The gas company however is unperturbed and declares that all necessary steps have been taken to ensure a satisfactory supply of gas in the event of a strike.

Paris, May 14.—The labor situation in France continues to improve, although the gas-workers, joiners and upholsterers are due to strike today.

New York, May 13.—The Socialist National Convention today passed a resolution condemning the French Government's decision to dissolve the General Confederation of Labor.

New Bill Proposes U.S. Loan Money To Soldiers For Homes

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, May 13.—A bill has been introduced into the House of Representatives, making available $300,000,000 for long term loans to soldiers who have been honorably discharged and desire to purchase homes. This bill is radically different from all others proposed for the relief of ex-soldiers.

Students Resume Classes After Striking One Month

Deliberative Council Issues Manifesto On Peking's Plan To Destroy Educational System

Students in Shanghai resumed their classes yesterday after striking one whole month. The decision was made last Friday by the Deliberative Council of the China National Students' Federation, which issued on Sunday the following manifesto:

"To the misfortune of our country, traitors are usurping the power of office by means of foreign aid. Our Eastern neighbor, taking hold of this rare opportunity, is exercising its aggressive policy. Besides the secret treaties which are not yet known to the public, there are the Twenty-one Demands, the Military Pact, the Shantung Arrangement, the Kaohsu and Shun-tsi Railway agreements and the exchange of notes on the four railways in Manchuria and Mongolia, each of which is sufficient to destroy the sovereignty of our nation.

"We, students, prompted by our own conscience and pained at the prospect of a subdued country, hence began our efforts for our diplomatic victory and against the traitors. The return en bloc of the students in Japan two years ago and the various moves instituted by the students here last Summer were part and parcel of the general movement.

STUDENTS OPPRESSED

"In January of this year, Japan addressed a note to the Peking Government, requesting for the direct negotiations over the Shantung controversy. In confirmation with our refusal to sign the German Treaty of Peace, there is absolutely no ground for negotiation with Japan over Shantung. To our great surprise, Peking accepted the note and willingly prepared itself to sell our country. This is within the knowledge of the men in the streets.

"Consequently, the branch Students Unions in the various places severally declared their opposition against direct negotiation. But the Peking Government belittled the public will and absolutely ignored the opposition. Moreover, it oppressed the patriotic students.

"On February 27, requests were received from the Student Unions in Peking, Tientsin, Shantung, Hunan, Nanking and Japan to open a discussion on the question of relief. Accordingly, the chairman of the Deliberative Council issued a call to all the Student Unions, which constitute the Students' Federation, to hold a meeting in Shanghai on March 20.

"The meeting was postponed for a week on account of the lack of a quorum at the appointed time. When the conference was finally begun, however, the diplomatic questions were carefully considered and discussed. Resolutions were passed on March 31 to send an ultimatum to the North Government, giving it a time limit within which to reject the Japanese note, to nullify the Military Pact and to abrogate all the Sino-Japanese secret treaties signed since the fourth year of the Republic. It was stated in the message that the final steps would be taken if no satisfaction was obtained.

NO DEFINITE SUPPORT

"While the advisor speaks with sincerity, the listener takes no heed at all. We were compelled therefore to suspend our classes on April 14 in accordance with the decision of the Deliberative Council in order to stimulate the interest of the various bodies of men to safeguard the nation.

"A month has elapsed since we began our efforts. Due perhaps to our weakness in propaganda, we received no definite material support except sympathetic messages from different organisations. Empty words of course cannot save one's nation.

"The diplomatic situation meanwhile becomes more critical. The destruction of our nation is in sight. It was fully our intention to exert all our efforts and forward our movement with what little energy that remains within us. Not for a moment have we abandoned our watch word 'don't neglect your efforts for national salvation while you are searching for education; don't forget your search for education while you are working for national salvation.' But when we are forced to take our choice, we would rather sacrifice education for our nation, and would not neglect our duties as citizens of the Republic just for the sake of education. This thought we had expressed in our second circular telegram.

TO RESUME CLASSES

"However, the ever-wicked Government, knowing that nothing could check the onward movement of the students has begun its attempt to destroy the entire educational system at its very root. It arrested the students. It sealed up the premises of the Students' Unions. It dismissed the students from their schools. It stopped the strikers from securing their promotion in class work. Above all, it threatened to close up all the public schools throughout the country unless the students in them resume their work immediately.

"By so doing, the Peking Government would kill two birds with one stone. It would secure all the educational funds of the nation and utilise them for military expenses. Its plan is crafty. Its motive is most wicked.

"Should we continue on our original policy, we would be, like the silkworm, building our own prison cells for our enemies. We would be falling into their trap. We are aware of the fact that educational institutions in Hunan are now but grass growing sites. We are pained to think of the consequences!

"Education is the foundation of a nation. It can tolerate no destruction such as already planned.

"Therefore, the Deliberative Council has passed a resolution to resume classes on Monday, May 17, in order to prevent the traitors from using the strike as a weapon to destroy the system of education in China and in order at the same time to carry on our original plans for national salvation.

"We earnestly hope that the people of this nation will remember the precept that each individual is responsible for the success or destruction of his nation and will refrain from remaining neutral in the fight for liberty. Then and only then can the diplomatic injustice be removed and the treacherous militarists be eliminated. So long as we have our breath, let us be faithful to our aim!"

(Reuter's Service)

Peking, May 16.—Acting in concert with the students at Shanghai, Peking students have decided to resume classes tomorrow.

versal expressions of regret and esteem. The sentiments of this Association were made known to him in a manner which is still fresh in your memory and which is fully recorded in the report. We are glad to hear since that Earl Curzon, H.M.'s Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, has written him a special letter of thanks for the invaluable services he has rendered to his country.

"Your committee had the privilage of entertaining his successor, Mr. Beilby Alston C.B., to dinner on his arrival in Shanghai and they are led to hope for a continuance of that spirit of cordial co-operation which has always characterised the relations of the China Association with his distinguished predecessor.

CHINESE AFFAIRS

"It is not necessary for me to add much to what is set forth in the report under this heading. This great land of paradox still presents the most Chinese of puzzles to the political onlooker. It is difficult for even the most experienced China hand to be anything more than a spectator where Chinese politics are concerned. However we cannot but observe with interest the working of that small leaven of progress which is now most surely swelling the lump. Public spirit in China showed unmistakable signs of growth during the past year. Perhaps the chief manifestation of this is the student movement.

"Politically and financially China is in as bad a morass as ever, indeed, many will say it is in a worse. But to my mind it is but the darkness before the dawn. I find in looking over the past reports of the Association that we have always been prone to take rather a gloomy view of Chinese affairs. Public bodies always do. But black as we have painted Chinese politics in our report I would wish to leave with you a note of optimism and to assure our Chinese friends that black as we may paint them politically we stand ready to sympathise with and assist them over the rough and stony way which lies before them to the goal of a regenerated China, a goal which we can all visualise, if only they will persevere."

The Chairman then went on to comment on the present situation of the Shantung question and outlined the attitude which the Association had taken towards it. He also touched on the impending question of the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

ON THE CONSORTIUM

Continuing the Chairman said: "Reference has also been made in the Report to the visit of Mr. Lamont to Peking and since that was written this distinguished financier has come and gone, and the excellent advise he gave the Chinese, unpalatable though it undoubtedly was, cannot help but have some salutary effect. The officials are ardently desirous of contracting loans but are equally sincere in their dislike of the control which they know will be enforced if any is lent. They appear willing to face the financial and administrative chaos which refusal of the Consortium terms will bring about rather than allow control over the expenditure of loan funds.

"The appalling selfishness and folly of such conduct can easily be appreciated. At the present moment the Chinese Government is spending about 7 million dollars every month in excess of its income. This money is blackmailed out of the Central Government by the various Military Commanders. Militarism is the source of all Chinese troubles and little can be hoped for until this is removed. It behoves all of us to do what lies in our power to strengthen the hands of the Consortium who are prepared to help China in the only way which can do her any lasting good. We want to see a strong China, a united China and an enlightened China and the program which the Consortium has laid down for itself is the one best calculated to attain this high ideal.

CHINESE ARE RESTIVE

"I believe that we may be on the eve of great things in China. The enormous majority of the Chinese are in a dangerous frame of mind. They are profoundly dissatisfied with the anarchy which prevails in the Government; the policy of the military faction which has hitherto dominated the Japanese Government has provoked the most bitter resentment throughout China, they realise the appalling condition of China's finances and they are without any hope of a remedy. The whole political power of the Northern party is in the hands of a few Generals; the Southern party is split up with many factions and guerilla warfare is proceeding amongst the various chiefs who can steal sufficient money to pay for their arms. There is no man and no party in China which has either the confidence or the respect of the people.

"It is this frame of mind which produces great national upheavals and though I do not fear any repetition of the events of 1900, the possibility of Bolshevist missionaries spreading their tenets in China is by no means negligible. One of the best means of combating this is by education on Western and preferably British lines and it is pertinent that I should here refer to the formation of a special committee, which has been formed on the instigation of the British Chamber of Commerce and on which this Association is represented, which has the special duty of enquiring into how British educational influence in China can best be advanced.

MUST NOT LAG

"When one views the great advances made by America, and lately by France, in educating on their own lines the youth of China, it is patent that we must not lag behind, as such education will have a great influence on the Chinese, with whom those who follow us will have to deal. It is probable that the outcome of the committee's deliberations will mean that the British community out here will be asked to give generous financial support and if this is so I hope that such appeal will be received sympathetically by the members of this Association.

"The committee will also have the task of considering the needs of the British Medical Missions in China, who have been lately in sore straits for the necessary funds for carrying on what is undoubtedly not only a great civilising work, but which has been and will continue to be of great value in maintaining our national prestige.

"There are those who hold the opinion that this Association has outlived its usefulness and that now that we have a live British Chamber of Commerce the Association has lost its "raison d'etre."

"Gentleman, I am not one of those. The Chamber of Commerce with its excellent organisation is able to handle purely commercial questions with a thoroughness and efficiency which this Association could never aspire to do, but there are many spheres of usefulness which can more properly be filled by an Association which has a personnel such as this. The Association gives a medium of expression to every British subject of good character and reputation in the Port, and is the only Association collectively representing the individual elements of the various nations which go to make up the British Empire.

OTHER ACTIVITIES

"Our report sets out fully what little has been accomplished and a great deal that still remains to be done in the important matter of the augmentation of Consular salaries.

"The recent annual meeting of the Ratepayers will have left this question fresh in your memories, and the policy recommended by your Committee of the appointment of an advisory or consultative Chinese Committee has been adopted.

"The question of the entertainment of men returned from active service was considered by the Committee during the year, and after consultation with the Committee of the United Services Association, it was decided that members of the China Association should be asked to subscribe to the funds of the United Services Association. I am happy to record that a very gratifying response was made to our appeal, no less a sum than Tls. 2,600 having been received.

FURTHER AID GIVEN

"In this connection I shall shortly propose that the sum of Tls. 565.50 which now stands to the credit of the Volunteer fund, be also donated to the United Services Association. The termination of the War having relieved us of further calls upon this fund, I feel that no happier object could be served than by donating it to the organisation which has been formed for the express purpose of assisting returned men and their families in case of need.

"Other matters dealt with in the report are those of light weight copper coinage and trade marks in China.

"Our report for the year is perhaps not quite so long as usual and while we have had a comparatively quiet yaer a great deal of the work done by your Committee is of a nature which does not permit of publication even in a confidential report, but the records of our work are on file in the Secretary's office where members can make themselves acquainted with them and the Secretary will be only too glad to inform members of our activities in any direction of which information is desired.

"We started the financial year with a debit of Tls. 5.87 and we close with a small credit of Tls. 45.45.

"We are indebted to Mr. L. D. Lemaire for kindly auditing the accounts.

"I beg to propose the adoption of the report and accounts and I shall be glad to answer to the best of my ability and questions relating to them which members may wish to put."

week of this month, it is understood.

The colony of children has been one of the charges of Dr. H. V. Davidson, who is in charge of refugee relief work in Siberia and has been under the direction of Miss Florence Farmer, who is well known in China as a mission worker and was one of the number who went from here to Siberia to aid in the work of the Red Cross there. It is presumed she will accompany the children on their coming journey. Whether the long voyage around the continent will be made by the three vessels that will set out from Vladivostok or whether the children will be put aboard other vessels here has not been disclosed. It is possible that they may be sent back to Petrograd by way of America.

Mixed Court Notes

A broker accused of obtaining 100 barrels of cement, valued at $510, by false pretenses from a contractor's godown at Pootung was released yesterday when the complainant stated that he was unable to induce his godown keeper to testify. It has been charged that in the absence of the contractor a postcard arrived from another firm ordering the cement and that the broker used the card as a means of obtaining the material from the godown. Then, it was alleged, he sold the cement to other persons.

Theft of clothing valued at $100 resulted in a sentence of four years imprisonment and expulsion for a coolie yesterday. The man had been convicted 12 times previously.

Two men and a woman charged with thefts in the Bubbling Well district were before the court yesterday. One man was sentenced to two years imprisonment and the other to 18 months. The woman was released after she had sworn that although she pawned the articles she did not know they were stolen.

Two pickpockets who have been operating in the Sinza district were sentenced to 18 months each.

An apprentice who is accused of stabbing the chief accountant of a rice shop at Soochow and Chekiang Roads was called before the court yesterday but his case was remanded for two weeks.

FERRARIN FLIES TO PEKING; GETS ROUSING WELCOME

Makes Trip From Tsingtao In Four Hours—Capt. Ranza In Calcutta Crash

(Reuter's Service)

Peking, May 17.—Lieutenant Ferrarin arrived at Nanyuan at 11:40 this morning in four hours from Tsingtao. A large gathering which was present at the aerodrome to welcome the aviator, included the members of the Legations, Chinese officials and other prominent personages and the whole of the Italian community. A wireless report had been received that the airman had passed Tientsin at 11 o'clock and shortly afterwards a Chinese onlooker pointed out a distant speck which quickly transformed itself into an aeroplane, bearing the Italian colors.

Lieutenant Ferrarin circled round the aerodrome planed down gracefully and made a perfect landing, amidst a hearty outburst of cheering. Thus the aerial Marco Polo arrived in Peking.

FLYER IS DECORATED

The delighted crowd then vied with one another in entertaining the airman and his mechanic, Canannini.

General Ting Cheng, head of the Aviation Department, and Wong-kai-wen, Grand Master of Ceremonies, pinned on Lieutenant Ferrarin's breast the Order of Wenhu, 4th Class. Subsequently a silver incense burner, inscribed in Chinese, "To the man who first flew across the continent of Asia" was presented to the airman by the Aviation Department. The President will receive Lieutenant Ferrarin on Wednesday.

Tientsin, May 17.—Lieutenant Ferrarin flying from Tsingtao passed over Tientsin at eleven o'clock this morning on his way to Peking.

Peking, May 17.—Lieutenant Masiero broke his journey at Tsingtao. He will leave for Peking tomorrow.

London, May 13.—The first competing machine—a Handley-Page piloted by Major Maclaren, who is accompanied by Captain Barton as navigator—for the Daily Express £10,000 Air-Cargo Race from Great Britain to India will start on May 15, while Mr. Kenworthy, competing on behalf of the Yorkshire Evening News, will start on May 20, in a Blackburn Kangaroo fighting bomber, accompanied by Captain Wilkins as navigator. The competitors must carry a cargo of 1,200 pounds to India and back. Major Maclaren's route will be via Turin, Athens, Cairo, Bagdad and Karachi, which is the turning point of the race.

These left London on April 13, taking only 34 days to cross the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans and Canada. In the consignment 26 bags also came from Canada. PLANS DEVELOP FOR BIG PICNIC NEXT SATURDAY

Will Be Held In Jessfield And All Americans Here Are Urged To Attend

Plans for the American picnic to be given by the American Song Service League Saturday afternoon are developing daily and the committee in charge of the arrangements declares every American in Shanghai should attend and join the fun.

Mr. Glauque is chairman of the athletic committee and will be in full charge of the games and races. This part of the program will last from 4 to 6 o'clock. Then comes the great family picnic supper—genuine homeside chow. Members of the committee said last night that it is expected that more Americans will sit down at this spread than have ever dined together in Asia before. The committee of which Mrs. Seeman is chairman asks all who will give fried chicken to telephone Mrs. Hutchinson, North 237. Those who will give baked beans should phone Mrs. Brenneman, West 429: rolls, to Mrs. Black, West 230. Mrs. Glauque will have charge of the pies—real apple pies.

"If your cook," urges the committee, "can make good pies—real homeside ones—please call Mrs. Black at West 230. Those who will give potato salad should call Mrs. Seemen at West 648. Young men who are not blessed (?) with cooks and who want to contribute a pot of coffee or a pickle should notify Mrs. Seeman, also. But whether you bring a pickle or a bun, come anyhow and join in the fun."

The picnic is to be held in Jessfield park Saturday afternoon, beginning at 4 o'clock. All are urged to arrive early.

J. T. Hammond Is Named Defendant In Damage Suit

Mr. J. T. Hammond, real estate agent, was named defendant in a suit brought against him in the British Supreme Court yesterday by Messrs. T. W. Simmons and Company, Plaintiffs claim $2,000 damage and ask an injunction restraining him from interfering with plaintiffs in installing an electric meter and connecting same with the municipal electric supply. The Court ordered that a defense be filed.

Mr. R. T. Bryan, jr., represented the claimants while the defendant was represented by Mr. R. E. Gregson. Plaintiffs allege having entered into a lease with the defendant on the first floor of the premises 6 Foochow Road, which provided that defendant should supply the plaintiffs with heat, water and light. They further allege that the defendant had disconnected the service line providing electric current to the plaintiffs' lighting installations.

In the course of the discussion, it was stated that a claim for damages has been filed by the defendant against plaintiffs in the United States Court for China. Counsel for plaintiffs however intimated that he was willing to have the case decided in the British Supreme Court.

Annamites Arrive On French Liner

Peiho Brings Troops Going To Tientsin And Recruits For French Police

The Messageries Maritimes cargo boat Peiho arrived yesterday afternoon from Marseilles via Saigon and Haiphong and moored at the Company's buoys. She brought here 300 Annamite troops who will proceed to Tientsin on the Lieutenant de la Tour, leaving early this morning for Chingwantao to load.

She also brought 90 Annamites for the French police force here. Most of the men, who looked very well, served in France during the war. The Peiho has 6,000 tons of cargo for here and after discharging will undergo a good overhaul here. Unlike the other vessels of the company which generally proceed from here to Japanese ports, the Peiho will load here for French ports.

The M. M. Mail steamer Porthos is due here on May 25.

LAURIES TO MANILA

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Laurie, the popular London dancers who came to Shanghai with Vanity Fair, are once more in the Settlement on their way to Manila where they have a long engagement. Mr. Laurie left Shanghai with the Denniston Players and Mrs. Laurie intended to return to England but when the Manila engagement was offered Mr. Denniston released Mr. Laurie from his contract and allowed him to accept. He wired Mrs. Laurie from Singapore, stopped her at Hongkong and they returned here. They are to sail for the Islands on the Empress of Asia May 21 but it is possible they may appear here for a brief engagement while waiting for the boat.

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.
Save the Babies.
INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!
We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy and retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse. It causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.
The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria
Physicians Recommend Castoria.
"I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."
J. E. SIMPSON, M. D., Chicago, Ill.
"A medicine so valuable and beneficial for children as your Castoria is deserves the highest praise. I find it in use everywhere."
J. S. ALEXANDER, M. D., Omaha, Neb.
"Have used your Castoria on various occasions in suitable cases and have found it a palatable and efficient laxative, especially in the various diseases of childhood."
CHAS. EDWARD GARDINER, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.
"Castoria is good for children and I frequently prescribe it, and always obtain the desired result."
V. GERALD BLATTNER, M. D., Buffalo, (N. Y.
"I have prescribed Castoria to families for several years. It is all right. Mothers like it, for children will take it without any trouble."
C. A. WILSON, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

SHANGHAI WINS FROM SAILORS BASEBALL TEAM

First Practice Match Of Season Shows Locals In Good Light

BRAD CROW TO RETURN

Gill In Good Form And Shuts Out Opponents For Four Innings

Shanghai's baseball team showed up in a good light Sunday afternoon at the Recreation Grounds when they met and defeated the Wilmington nine in a practice game. The score was 11 to 3. The Willys have been on the target range and had just reached port. They showed their lack of opportunity to practice but Captain Keaton promises a better showing as soon as his men have had an opportunity to work out.

Gill went into the box for Shanghai for the first four innings of the seven-inning contest and shut out the sailors who got only one hit off him. Claire, who caught Gill, then went into the box and Held put on the bird-cage.

The Willys got three hits off Claire but would not have scored if Held had not heaved two wild ones into left, letting in three men. The sailors didn't score after that.

WILHOIT RATS 1,000

"Old Cy" Wilhoit played a great game at the initial sack and with three times at bat walked on with three hits, one of them a homer.

Merrill, a new man, made a creditable showing at second.

Captain Bills was at his home station, short. 'Nuff sed, except he wasn't content with good fielding and slipped over a homer in the sixth.

Hopkins, although regularly dishing up puzzlers as a left hander in the box, played Number Three bag like it was a habit.

Smith was in his usual good form at center and two new faces were seen in the other gardens.

As the game was arranged at the eleventh hour, owing to the unexpected arrival of the Wilmington in port Saturday, there was a very small crowd. Three persons occupied the new 750-capacity grandstand and about 40 others were on the sidelines.

The stands are well under way and the clubhouse is nearly ready for use.

TO PRACTICE DAILY

If weather permits the Shanghai team will practice every day this week. Several games are in sight. The destroyer fleet is expected to spend some time here and a series with the men from the American ships is anticipated. Nothing has been heard definitely from the Chicago University team but it is believed they can be brought here.

The fans will be happy to learn that Brad Crow is expected back from Tientsin very soon to strengthen the team in his old station at third.

It was announced yesterday that the by-laws of the club have been revised and are now ready for submission.

The score by innings:

Local Players Give Program At Apollo

Society Of Literature And Art Present 'The Gipsy Premier' Before Packed House

The story of a gypsy musician who was superseded in fame by the genius of his own son as a violinist was brilliantly portrayed by Mr. Selivanoff and his cast in the comic opera entitled "Gypsy Premier," which was played at the Apollo Theater on Sunday evening to a packed house. Mr. Lebedev took the part of the son.

A feature of the evening was the dancing of Apollon, a young ballet master, and a new arrival from Russia. The Shanghai stage has perhaps never before seen a male dancer of such agility and ease as Apollon, and with his partner, Madame Belicovitch, they scored a great success. This young dancer, scarcely out of his teens, is also known as a mandolin virtuoso, and his appearance on the Shanghai stage will be looked forward to by the local theater-goers.

Madame Milich, who was the star of the evening, was in splendid voice, and Madame Polyanskaia as Sarri, the violinist's daughter, was as comical in her simple peasant's rig-out as she was dainty in her other stage tricks.

The music of the play was such as to bring out to the full the vocal capacities of the players, and in a quintet composed of Madame Milich, mezzo-soprano, Madame Polyanskaia, coloratura-soprano, Mr. d'Espagnoli, tenor, Mr. Grey, baritone and Mr. Selivanoff, bass, the voices blended perfectly.

Shanghai Rifle Association

Annual Rifle Meeting

After four days shooting, the annual rifle meeting of the S.R.A. was concluded on Sunday and the complete results will be published shortly. The meeting has been a great success. For the most part conditions were favorable. There were 104 entries and 96 competed.

The Japanese Company was very successful, capturing over 30 prizes including the Grand Aggregate and the Ladies Prize. The Grand Aggregate went to Mr. Ito and the Ladies Prize to Mr. Y. Kawanami "D" class. The latter, besides winning the Ladies prize, won two first prizes and made a possible at 300 yards. Martial Law Is Not Rescinded In City

In spite of the announcement Saturday, martial law in Chinese territory was not rescinded. Troops and police scrutinised pedestrians with searching vigilance as usual.

The order to rescind was withdrawn at the eleventh hour upon the receipt of some information at the Office of the Acting Defense Commissioner that certain Bolshevik elements were planning to disturb the peace on Sunday.

General Lu Yung-hsian, Tuchun of Chekiang, also instructed General Ho Fung-lin, the Acting Defense Commissioner, that vigilance should not be relaxed until later.

MAN WANTED FOR $4,954 ROBBERY HERE IS CAUGHT

Police Declare Suspected Houseboy Has Confessed David Burglary

Theft of articles valued at $4,954 from the home of Mr. S. S. David, 140 Broadway, has been confessed by a houseboy who was captured at Zangzok, according to a statement made to the Mixed Court yesterday by Sub-Inspector Prosser of Wayside Station. Three other Chinese were implicated by the confession, according to the officer, and a remand of a week was granted to allow further investigation.

The Davids had gone out to dinner on the evening of December 20, 1919, and while they were gone a number of servants from households in the neighborhood assembled in the house and conducted a gambling game. The accused houseboy, who was then employed next door, was a member of the party and he, with three others, it is charged committed the robbery at that time.

A small trunk was loaded with jewelry, a cash box, government bonds, a passport, life and fire insurance policies, a collection of old coins, table linen, furs and clothing and removed from the house.

Four servants in the David household were arrested on suspicion and taken into the Mixed Court. It was then that Mr. David made a remarkable suggestion:

"One time in Singapore I lost a diamond ring," he said. "When suspicion fastened on one of the servants an electrical appliance was procured and after the man had received a shock of electricity he confessed at once."

He suggested that the same method be used in this instance.

"We can't do that," was the reply of British Assessor Blackburn.

The suspected servants were released and search was begun for the houseboy who is now under arrest. He was finally located at Zangzok and brought here for trial. The case is to be heard before British Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Li.

PEACE RESOLUTION PASSES, 242-150; 50 ORATIONS MADE

22 House Democrats Swing Over To Majority, Including 12 From New York

TWO REPUBLICANS BOLT

Victory Won By 20 Fewer Than Two - Thirds — Democratic Substitute Fails, 222-171

Washington, April 9.—The House tonight passed, by a vote of 242 to 150, the joint resolution to declare war with Germany at an end, and sent it to the Senate, where Republican leaders propose to force consideration at once.

This action came after the House, sitting as a Committee of the Whole, had rejected by a vote of 222 to 171, a motion by Representative Flood to recommit the resolution and substitute an amendment, which provided for annulment of war-time regulations.

In the final vote two Republicans—Fuller of Massachusetts and Kelley of Michigan—opposed the resolution, while twenty-two Democrats voted with the Republicans.

DEMOCRATS BOLT

Twelve of the nineteen New York City Democrats bolted the party. Representatives Longworth of Ohio and Bell of Georgia voted present, but both were paired, the former with Representative Kitchin, who suffered a stroke of paralysis a short time before the vote came.

The Democratic motion to recommit read, in part:

"That in the interpretation of any provision relating to the date of the termination of the present war or of the present existing emergency, the date when this resolution becomes effective shall be construed and treated as the date of the termination of the war or of the present existing emergency and of the proclamations of the President, notwithstanding any provisions in any act of Congress or joint resolutions providing the date of the termination of the war or of the present emergency.

"Provided that all acts, joint resolutions or parts of acts of joint resolutions, fixed by the terms of the same to expire or terminate upon the expiration or the termination of the war, the present or existing emergency, are hereby repealed."

The Republicans received little encouragement from the victory, as the resolution obtained twenty votes fewer than the necessary two-thirds to pass it over Presidential veto. Despite this Senator Lodge stated tonight that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee would promptly consider the resolution with the purpose of reporting it to the Senate within ten days.

KITCHIN COLLAPSES

The debate was sharp and partisan and was marked by the collapse of Claude Kitchin, former Democratic leader, after a passionate appeal to his colleagues to defeat the resolution because of its "unconstitutionality and hypocrisy."

Mr. Kitchin, in leading the fight for the Administration forces, started his speech in his characteristically robust style, but as he closed he showed signs of faintness and soon afterward left the floor, collapsing. His physician, who was summoned, ordered him to his home, saying that he had suffered a slight stroke of paralysis, the second in two months.

Representative P. J. Kelley of Michigan, who bolted his party, made a powerful speech in opposition. He excoriated his party as attempting to force a separate peace with Germany, and for seriously considering the resolution, which he said was unconstitutional and proposed a treaty with Germany without terms.

His desertion was offset by the acquisition of Representative James A. Galivan of Massachusetts, who denounced the attitude of the President as delaying the conclusion of peace because he "could not have his own way as to the League of Nations."

Ex-Speaker Clark, the Democratic leader, said that while he was in favor of peace, he did not intend to fight for peace along unconstitutional lines.

More than fifty speeches were made, many of them for the coming campaign. Representative H. W. Temple of Pennsylvania discussed the intricate phases of the resolution, while Representative Longworth of Ohio attacked the President, insisting that he alone was responsible for the delay in effecting peace.

KELLEY'S ATTACK

"I am tremendously opposed to this resolution," said Representative Kelley. "It is a proposition to make a separate peace with Germany. If the President had come back to this country and said he was going to make a peace with Germany separate and distinct from the peace to be made in conjunction with the nations with whom we fought, he would not have had a vote of support or confidence on either side.

"If you pass this resolution today, the moral effect of it on the opinion of America will be not what is intended, but that, this House has approved the course of those who stood against the treaty in the Senate, with or without reservations, and in favor of a separate peace.

"This is a resolution to make a reparate peace with Germany without terms, without pledges, without guarantees of any kind, shape or description. The proposal is a new and strained attitude for us to take on this side of the Chamber. A distinguished Republican leader more than a year ago said it was our place to remain with the allied nations and not make a separate peace with Germany."

Mr. Kelley then read from the speeches of Senator Lodge of Massachusetts to substantiate his statement.

"I believe that for the present," Mr. Kelley continued, "and until the conditions of the world settle down, we must stand with the nations with whom we fought. Our record is perfectly clear. We stand for the treaty as it is written and approved by the Republican members of the Senate. When the time comes that a sufficient number of Democrats will join us in the ratification of that treaty we will be at peace with all the world, and then no man can accuse us of saying that within eighteen months after the armistice was signed, before the grass had grown a second time over the graves of our dead in France, we held out a friendly hand to Germany and said, 'Shake hands; call it square.' Never with my vote, gentlemen."

CHALLENGES REPUBLICANS

Representative Kitchin said that he could not understand how "any redblooded American can justify his vote for this resolution." He declared that it would prevent the United States from treating with Germany as a victor should treat with a vanquished foe in the negotiations of peace, and continued:

"The passage of this resolution would put America in the position of treating with Germany as an equal among the nations of the world. We would have to redeclare war to dictate terms. So it is absolutely necessary from a patriotic standpoint that the technical state of war should continue."

Mr. Kitchin contended that the responsibility of rejecting the treaty of Versailles with the Lodge reservations never had been "put up to President Wilson." The treaty, he said, never had been ratified and sent to the President.

"The President," he said, "had his finger on only twenty Democrats in the Senate. He could control them absolutely. But there are ninety-six Senators. How could the President's control over twenty prevent the other seventy-six from ratifying the treaty?

"The Democrats furnished the Republicans with 21 votes—enough not only to make the necessary two-thirds for ratification, but three-fourths of the Senate.

DECLARES MOVE MUST FAIL

"I charge that every line of this resolution is full of false pretense and hypocrisy. Senator Lodge, the Republican leader in the Senate, knows it was demagoguery and hypocrisy when he conceived it and put the burden of passing it upon the House.

"Every Republican on this floor knows it is absolutely impossible for this resolution ever to become a law. They know that the President, under his oath, must veto it, and they know that it can't be passed over his veto."

Declaring that the Republicans held that the only thing they sought was to remove the war laws from the statute books and get the country back on a normal basis, Mr. Kitchin flung this challenge to them:

"Bring in a straight-out repeal measure, and I will guarantee you enough Democratic votes to pass it over the President's veto. But the Republicans don't want to repeal these laws. They know that if they repeal any of the war laws, the first one to come off the statute books must be the Lever Food and Fuel Control act, because that is the law that the little people, and farmers and the average business men want to get rid of.

"I'll tell you the reason why. Ask the big corporation interests. The Lever act is the only statute that gives power to the courts to issue injunctions against labor leaders and labor. It is the only law which permits contempt proceedings and jail sentences to be imposed.

"Big business has said to the Republicans let that be the last act repealed. It is the only act that can be held as a club over labor.'"

Declaring that the resolution could never accomplish the repeal of the war laws because it could not be passed over a Presidential veto, Mr. Kitchen said that a vote for it would be "a vote to deceive labor."

Representative Flood asserted that if the Republican majority in the Senate had not been "obtained by the purchase of a Senatorial seat in Michigan" the treaty would have been ratified. He also remarked that many Republicans had aided in the passage of the Volstead act over the President's veto, and continued:

"I am curious to know how they will reconcile their acts in voting to continue war-time prohibition on the ground that we were at war with the vote they are going to cast today for a resolution based upon a preamble which declares that the war had been at an end eight months before that vote was taken."

Representative Longworth reviewed the peace negotiations at Paris, and declared that the President had not followed the views of the American people, but had persisted in keeping the country at war because the Senate refused to accept the League of Nations.

"There is one insurmountable obstacle in our path toward peace," he said, "and that obstacle is the President of the United States. A treaty of peace might have been ratified more than a year ago if he had not included in the treaty, as he frequently boasted, the child of his brain, that un-American monstrosity known as the Wilson League of Nations.

"It still remains, though twice repudiated, an integral part of the treaty in the exact phraseology bargained for and brought back from Paris by the President."

After charging surrender by Wilson to Clemenceau and others, in order to obtain the League, Mr. Longworth continued:

"And so the League was bought and paid for at the expense of the American people, and the President returned to display his wares to his almost forgotten constituents. To his immense surprise they balked at the bargain.

"Reverse after reverse met his efforts. His auditors were respectfully unconvinced by his arguments and his persuasive eloquence fell upon dull ears. Furious at his failure, he raged at his opponents and coined epithets to fling at their devoted heads, but the more he raged the stronger grew the opposition, until finally one day during a paroxysm of fury something snapped, and he returned to Washington a broken man.

"The chosen representatives of 110,000,000 people, sit supine and permit the will of a vast majority to be thwarted by the will of one man, elevated to office originally by a minority and since then repudiated by a great majority?

Representative Mondell closed the debate for the resolution in a fifteen-minute speech, in which he pleaded for support from both sides of the House, saying that the country wanted peace and that it was not a partisan issue.

Girl Who Tells Of Torture In Home

Minnie Gallender, pretty seventeen-year-old girl, whose charges of cruelty alleged to have been inflicted upon her by her father created a sensation in New York. The girl alleges that she was kept locked in a trunk for hours by her father, was branded with a hot iron, was stuck with pins and was compelled to stand nude in the middle of a room while her step-brothers and step-sisters were forced to throw knives and dishes at her. Her father is John Gallender, a clay modeler on the vaudeville stage. The cruelties inflicted upon the girl, according to her story, covered a period of seven years.

Monocacy And Samar Make High Scores In Target Practice

The American gunboats Samar and Monocacy made the high scores in the target practice from which the vessels are just now returning and which was held in the bay off Woosung last week. Particularly good scores were credited to one gun on the Wilmington as well.

The other gunboats taking part in the target practice were the Villalobos and Quiros.

German Troops Withdraw And The Remaining Police Are Disarmed

BY WALTER DURANTY

Frankfort, April 6.—At dawn today the French Tricolor flew over the Town Hall of Frankfort and Darmstadt. During the day the French troops occupied the towns of Homburg, Hanau and Dieburg.

The operation was one of the most quietly conducted and most wonderful ever carried out by one army in another country. It was half an hour after midnight when the men of the Third Regiment of Moroccan Rifles moved forward from the advance posts. Rain was falling and in the darkness the movement of the men was silent and mechanical. They were preceded by half a dozen little tanks, which bumped and snorted on their way.

The march from the outposts of the bridgehead into Frankfort is not long, but it occupied some time, as cavalry screens were at the same time being sent north, south and east of the city. It was still dark when the outskirts of the city were reached and the houses were still shuttered and the people asleep. The rolling of the tanks may have awakened them, but they gave no sign.

Undisturbed and imperturbable, the Moroccans marched down the long Mainzerlandstrasse in full fighting kit, with helmets and rifles ready for action. Once inside the city the column began to break up, some men being told off to occupy the Town Hall, others the Post Office, others the station and barracks. As quietly as they had entered troops carried out these operations, and Frankfort woke up to find itself in French hands.

PEOPLE INDIFFERENT

It was not long, however, till the news of what was afoot spread, and by 8 o'clock the streets were crowded with the inhabitants. For the most part they were very indifferent. There were neither scowls nor cheers. Just as the Rhineland people did when the march forward took place after the armistice, they crowded around tanks and field kitchens, examining everything and commenting. The children liked it all, and marched in front of the companies of soldiers everywhere, shouting.

Among the working people there is an element which seems considerably relieved rather than otherwise, for they hope that the move of the French will check any danger of a massacre of the Reds in the Ruhr Basin.

There was no hostile demonstration of any kind whatever and the people on the whole seemed anxious to be helpful, acting as guides to the French officers and troops. By 10 o'clock the walls of the city were placarded everywhere with General Degoutte's proclamations, explaining that France's advance was the result of the infringement of the treaty in the Ruhr district by the German Government and the Reichswehr. The proclamation further explained what restrictions would be placed on the population and forbade public meetings and demonstrations. Local officials will not be in any way interfered with.

When the French troops entered there were none of the Reichswehr left in the city. Most of them left two days ago and the rear guard escaped hurriedly out of the town last evening when it became known that the French had decided to advance.

During the last few days the control of the city has been undertaken by the Sicherheitpolisei (Security Police), who to the number of 600, for most part clothed in fantastic uniforms have been arrested and shut up in the infantry barracks under guard. In the barracks and in the billets of the so-called police a very large number of rifles, machine guns and hand grenades have been found, and the discoveries justify the strength of the guard outside the barrack door, which is covered by a machine gun.

CITY HEAVILY GUARDED

During the early morning the railway station was occupied by Moroccan troops and later the engineers took it over. The whole place is surrounded and the stalwart Senegalese are posted outside every signal box and at every crossing and bridge. In the central square of the city the same Senegalese are posted, and all the main streets are commanded by machine guns and auto cannon. Guns have been placed also at many strategic points outside the city, so that it is entirely in the power of the invading troops.

For every eventuality the French are prepared and vigilant. The operation, which was directed by Marshal Foch from Paris, was prepared at Mayence by General Degoutte, commander in chief of the Rhine army, and executed by General de Metz, commander of the force of occupation. The troops engaged belong to the Thirty-seventh Division, and those which occupy Frankfort are of the Third Algerian Regiment.

Many Germans who have watched the proceedings today seem to have been struck by the similarity of the whole business to their own operations on entering the towns of North France and Belgium in the early days of the war. The only remark which may be described as hostile came from an ex-soldier who after reading General Degoutte's proclamation, ejaculated the German equivalent of "the same old junk."

Several airplanes have been flying over the city and the surrounding country during the day, and last night during the advance they were used as advance scouts. With colored lights they signaled to the advancing troops that no opposition was to be met.

Beyond Frankfort and in the other four occupied towns the procedure has been similar to that observed here. Homburg, a pleasant watering place, formerly patronised by the Kaiser, was occupied during the morning, and the troops pushed forward toward Hanau and Dieburg on the outskirts of the fifty-kilometer line.

At none of these places has any opposition been reported, and it seems that the German population is going to take the French occupation with the same philosophic calm as they did on the left bank in 1918.

It is understood that M. Tiraud, Chairman of the Interallied Rhineland Commission, will reach here tomorrow to consider the problems arising out of the situation.

Bedbug, Shelved By Cootie, Gets Back Into News

The bedbug is once more in the news.

After having been forced into the obscurity of a deep dugout for five years by the pernicious cootie Mr. B. Bug has emerged triumphant.

A lot of people had forgotten his existence. But he bided his time. And now he's come into his own with one woman and a boy in a hospital and three houses gutted by fire as his record.

But he gave his life to achieve the distinction. He perished in the fire. It is expected that his fellow tribesmen will erect a suitable memorial, or, at least, make a popular demonstration throughout the Settlement.

Wong Tung-tze, who lived at No. L811B Yangtszepoo Road, was the medium through which Mr. B. B. broke back into print. Deeply impressed by the admonitions of the Health Crusaders against vermin and feeling a few unkind acts that had been perpetrated against him by Mr. B. Bug, the young man started out, early yesterday morning, to exterminate his unwelcome bunkie.

It is rumored that on his first expedition he carried a rifle but failed to score a bullseye. Next he tried a razor but as it was a "safety" he couldn't cut himself with it to say nothing of slaying his enemy.

Then he had a happy thought. He would resort to liquid fire.

Armed with a small lamp he advanced to the attack. He sighted the foe—the rest is told by the official report of Chief M. W. Pett of the Fire Department.

Three houses were gutted and a woman and a small boy, trapped in one of the flaming buildings, leaped from first story windows and were so badly injured it was necessary to send them to the Shantung Road Hospital. They are expected to recover.

The Hongkew Division, working under difficulties, managed to save the block from destruction.

WHEN FEVERISH OR IN PAIN

There Is Prompt Help And Comfort For Little Ones In Baby's Own Tablets

The health of babies and young children is subject to rapid changes, and careful mothers should not delay at the first sign of feverishness with chills or flushes. There is warning in a hot dry skin, thirst, quick breathing and a plaintive cry; at such a time a prompt dose of Baby's Own Tablets, the children's friend, will often avert a serious illness.

Mrs. M. D. Matheson, of 42 Dufresne Street, Montreal, says:—"My little boy, 5 years old, was threatened with fever. I gave him Baby's Own Tablets at night and in the morning he was better. I shall always use Baby's Own Tablets for my little ones, and I find they take them without trouble."

Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy are guaranteed to be equally helpful and harmless to the youngest infant as to the child of 6 years or more. They are recommended for simple fever, colds, indigestion, constipation, colic, diarrhoea, disturbed sleep, eczema, teething troubles and worms. Obtainable from druggists, also post free at 60 cents the vial, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

BRITAIN STUDIES DEVOLUTION PLAN

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 13.—The report of the Speaker's Committee on Devolution shows that the Committee was equally divided on the two schemes suggested but practically agreed on the question of the powers to be devolved in financial relations and the judiciary. Under the heading of the powers that it is proposed to devolve are the regulation of internal commercial undertakings, order and good government, ecclesiastical matters, agriculture and land, local judiciary and minor legal matters, education except Oxford, Cambridge and London Universities, local government and municipal undertakings and public health. It is proposed to transfer to local legislatures certain license duties, any deficit to be made up out of income-tax, while the whole position will be reviewed after five years.

In his speech the Chairman said:

CHAIRMAN'S SPEECH

Gentlemen.—As the report and accounts for the year 1919 have been in your hands for some days I will ask you to follow the usual custom and take them as read.

The result of the year's working will, I feel sure, be regarded as satisfactory. The profit on the Working Account amounts to Tls. 79,141.65 against Tls. 42,000 for the previous year. The improvement would have been very much more marked but for the adverse exchange though to a certain extent this has been compensated for by better prices realised during the year. The balance at Profit and Loss last year amounted to Tls. 72,028.00 and after writing off the sum of Tls. 11,183.17 and paying a Final Dividend of Tls. 50,000, left us with an amount of Tls. 10,844.83 to be carried forward. This amount, added to this year's profit, namely, Tls. 54,855.34, gives us a total of Tls. 65,700.17 to deal with. As regards the disposition of this amount, your Directors propose that a Dividend of Forty Tael Cents per Share be paid and that the sum of $15,555.37 be written off Assets, and that the balance of Tls. 10,144.80 be carried next year's Accounts.

INCREASED AREA

The planted area on Dominion remains the same as last year, that on Hendra having been increased by 116½ acres. Our total planted area is 1,568½ acres, of which 1090 acres is producing. On Dominion there is approximately a balance of 142 acres available for rubber planting while on Hendra the Estate is fully planted. An application, however, has been lodged with the District Land Office for a further 640 acres adjoining the Hendra Estate.

On Dominion it was considered necessary, in order to allow a longer period of bark renewal to reduce the original estimate of 340,000 lbs. to 300,000 lbs. Although the revised estimate was exceeded by some 6,000 lbs., it is disappointing to have a smaller yield than the previous year, but it was considered urgently necessary to restrict the output for the sake of the future welfare of the Estate. The Hendra estimate was exceeded by a small margin but this excess would have very much larger if rain had not interfered to such a great extent during the last three months of the year.

In spite of the decreased output, costs on both Estates, particularly Hendra, are satisfactory. Dominion shows a slight increase over that of the previous year, the loss on rice being responsible for the difference. As you are no doubt aware, it has been generally considered preferable to sell rice to the coolies at a moderate price rather than raise their wages to meet the increased cost of living. Costs on Hendra, even allowing for the loss on rice shows a reduction of nearly 2½ d. on last year's figures and I am sure you cannot fail to have been struck by the general all round improvement of the returns from this Estate.

WEEDS KEPT DOWN

Both Estates were kept in a thoroughly clean weeded condition throughout the year and the condition of the Estate in respect of pests and diseases was normal. The labor position generally speaking improved and the health on both Estates throughout was satisfactory.

Changes were made in the management of both Estates, Mr. Cantrell's services were dispensed with on Dominion and Mr. D. F. Gordon Stables was appointed Manager in April. The Estate suffered considerably from neglect during the last months of Mr. Cantrell's management and Mr. Stables had a difficult task in the restoration of the Estates to a proper condition. Recent reports indicate that he has made very great progress during the short time he has been on the Estate. Mr. Phillips resigned his position in September and Mr. J. Whyte was appointed Manager on Hendra.

A forward sale of two tons Smoked Sheet monthly for the whole of 1920 at a price of 85 cents per pound was made.

MANAGEMENT TRANSFERRED

In order to comply with the new Order in Council, the General Managership and Secretaryship of the Company was transferred to Messrs. A. R. Burkill & Sons, and their representative will be shortly visiting the Company's properties. Before concluding, I would like to take this opportunity of recording the Directors' appreciation of the work done by the late Secretaries and General Managers, Messrs. Meyer & Measor and also by the Straits Agents and the Estate Managers.

I now propose the first resolution, "That the Report and Accounts for the year ended December 31, 1919 as printed and circulated be passed," but before putting this resolution to the meeting, I shall be pleased to do my best to answer any questions any shareholders may wish to ask.

A Black Outlook In Italy

THE Italian Government is face to face with a situation which verges on Bolshevism. On May 12, the cabinet headed by Premier Nitti was upset by a vote of 193 to 112 as a result of the debate on the domestic policy. The Popular Party, which theretofore had supported the Government went over to the Socialists and thus brought about the defeat which resulted in Signor Nitti's resignation. The Catholic Party supported Nitti. The Popular Party's action was due to dissatisfaction with the methods pursued by the Government in putting down the strike of the employes of the Posts, Telegraphs and Telephones.

It is now announced that Signor Nitti probably will return to power, supported by the Catholic Party, for the simple reason that no one else can be found to take the job. In the present state of unrest none of the Italian leaders seems inclined to take the helm. Both the workers and the peasants are engaged in perfecting strongly welded organisations, along Bolshevist lines, and there is nothing to stop them. A recent issue of the Journal des Debats, (Paris) quotes its Florence correspondent as saying that in Tuscany alone 37,000 peasant families are enrolled in the Socialist leagues and they have been responsible for many recent uprisings and have forced unexampled concessions from the land-owners.

The agitation in the Romagna, according to the same writer has been disastrous. In the Province of Ferrara, 70,000 peasants quit work, imperilling a large part of a very fine harvest. "The cattle were led to the stables, where they were left without care and without food; this caused further loss of millions of lire. The lofts were burned; the animals poisoned or smoked to death in their barns cannot be counted."

The end sought is the abolishment of tenantry, and the tenants, themselves often protesting, are compelled to carry out the orders of the leagues. Tenantry abolished, the land will first be lent to agricultural co-operatives, then socialised. That is the plan. They see only one way to strike at the land-owners immediately, and that is to make it impossible for them to cultivate the soil except at a loss—to reduce production.

The secretary of one of the labor chambers explained it to the correspondent of the Journal des Debats as follows: "Our conditions are impossible. We know it. That is why we make them. The land-owners, no longer masters on their own land, forced to employ three times as much labor as is necessary, prevented from bettering or extending the land under cultivation, will be forced to quit. If they stop producing, or produce less than they could under normal conditions, they become subject to expropriation. So we hasten the coming of the necessary reform."

So much for the movement among the peasants. Meanwhile the Italian Socialist Party has committed itself to the provisional plan drawn up by Signor N. Bombacci, which is purely Bolshevist in that it provides for a Soviet regime as the instrument of proletarian administration. The Congress of Bologna last October agreed to participation in the elections "for the Bourgeois Parliament" only on condition that the party should at the same time form the system of Soviets. After the elections the Socialists set to work to organise their soviet system, and the project was formally ratified at a National Council of Regional Delegates held at Florence in February. The general principles of the Bombacci plan—what an inspiring name with which to head a Bolshevist movement!—are set forth in the Avanti (Milan) as follows:

1. The Soviets (councils of workingmen, artisans, and peasants) must form the basis of the Socialist state of workingmen, the sole organs of power and of supreme direction for the organisation of production and of communist distribution as well as for the regulation of all economic, social, and political relations, both internal and external.

2. The formation and arrangement of the Soviets must necessarily be made effective, during the revolutionary period (which is the present state of Italy) preceding the actual beginning of the social revolution, by transferring all power into the hands of the Soviets for the exercise of the dictatorship of the proletariat. It is not only to accomplish with greater success this particular historic duty that the institution of Soviets must first have complete organisation and thorough preparation, but because only a national body broader than the local Soviets can have control during the period before the final revolutionary struggle against the bourgeois regime and its false democratic illusion—parliamentarism.

3.—The conditions of the present period, characterised by a want of liberty of action, of speech, and even of thought for the workingman, as well as the constant pressure and defamation to which the laboring classes are subjected by the bourgeoisie, make it absolutely necessary for the highest interests of these classes to protect and guarantee, by means of a proletarian vanguard, the Soviets of the workingman against any pressure and against any insidious schemes, direct or indirect, of the bourgeoisie. These guarantees must express themselves in the control and close vigilance on the part of the proletarian vanguard (the Socialist party, organisations of resistance and of socialist co-operation) of the Soviet. From this the necessity arises on the one hand for the introduction of an adequate representation in the local and central Soviets and on the other for the formation of administrative regulations so that the bourgeoisie cannot undermine the free expression of the will of the laboring classes. . . .

This, in a general way, is the situation which will confront any one of the time-tried statesmen of Italy who finds courage enough to attempt the formation of a new cabinet. It holds out small hope of peaceful settlement.

Candidates And Issues Still In Doubt

Open Question For Conventions—But Wood For Republicans And McAdoo For Democrats Now Seem To Have Best Chances

(New York Times, April 18)

Primaries already held make clear one fact of high significance. Both the Republican and Democratic Conventions will be open. Within each convention will be determined who is to be the standard bearer of his party in the coming campaign.

Two Republican candidates, the one representing what might be called the right of the old Roosevelt following, the other the left, now stand out against each other as the leading aspirants. In the Democratic Party the interest, though as great, is to be suspended, with no pre-convention contest worthy of the name.

President Wilson's attitude is the factor in the Democratic uncertainty. It is considered altogether unlikely that he will be a candidate, but on good authority it is learned that he has spoken his mind on this subject to no one and that he has given no encouragement to any candidacy. Though reasons of health, emphasised by his slow recovery, and the traditional opposition to a third term all point to his not running, the President's silence has left the lurking possibility that the League of Nations question may make him the nominee.

DOUBT AS TO THE ISSUES

While the coming campaign will be one of the most momentous in the history of the country, there is a similar uncertainty as to issues. It is not known whether the League of Nations is an issue, and, if it were, perhaps only the President in his full vigor could make it the dominant issue. Were the irreconcilables to control the Republican platform on this subject, as they did the action of their party in the Senate, there would be a clean-cut issue—for the League or against the League—but with the question turning on the extent of reservations the case would be different. For the lack of a voice for the League like the President's, the League has been distinctly secondary in the primaries so far. This is best illustrated by the labor vote. Labor in its national conventions unreservedly indorsed the League, and the whole weight of organised labor was credited in the affirmative. But in the policy of "rewarding friends and punishing enemies," the man among candidates in both parties who has received the largest support from labor is Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California, uncompromising opponent of the League.

Except the lineup as to the League, there is yet no outstanding issue of demarkation between the two parties. Both declare for economy and reduction of taxes, both for Americanism as opposed to radicalism, both for budget reform. But what will be their attitude on the arbitrary nation-wide strike in an industry that would threaten the country with starvation? The great middle class—especially the farmers—wants to know, it is asserted, whether either party will come out flat-footedly against the unrestricted right to strike where the life of the nation is menaced and demand that each side submit its case to arbitration before the strike or lockout is ordered.

Another uncertainty is: What will the parties do about prohibition? If the parties pass over these questions concerning the duty of labor and capital and prohibition in silence, as they may do, then the line of demarkation between them will be less closely drawn, and the personality of the opposing candidates will assume chief importance—their vote-getting power as expressed by their character and individual promises. That power, something in any event that cannot be overlooked, is now being measured in the primaries.

How do the candidates in the two parties stand? Where are the chief tests yet to be made? With what strength are the chief contenders likely to enter the convention?

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES

Take first the Republican Party, where the conflict grows hotter each week:

General Leonard Wood will go into the convention with the largest number of pledged votes. His managers assert that this will be not less than 350 out of the total number of 984. One of Johnson's managers, in making an estimate in Washington after the Michigan election, conceded that Wood would probably enter the convention with 300 votes. Two hundred and more are claimed for Wood by his backers. Of these 103 are set down as instructed or pledged, including 11 named by the South Carolina convention last Wednesday, as follows: Arizona, 6; Georgia, 3; Maine, 12; Minnesota, 10; Mississippi, 12; New Hampshire, 8; New Mexico, 6; North Dakota, 8; Oklahoma, 2; South Dakota, 10; Tennessee, 11; Virginia, 2, and the Philippines, 2. In addition, the Wood managers say they will have the 10 delegates named by Rhode Island last week, and assert that the following will be found lined up in the Wood column: Kentucky, 26; Kansas, 20; Minnesota, 14; Oklahoma, 18; Florida, 8; Louisiana, 12. Nine remaining delegates yet to be chosen from Tennessee will also be for Wood, it is asserted. Johnson, Lowden and Harding men dispute some of these claims. There are two delegations from Louisiana, as the result of a contest.

But General Wood's chance for the nomination depends largely on what he shows yet. It is asserted by his managers that as the significance of the setback in Michigan is better understood it will result in drawing new strength to him in the remaining primaries; that is, the line has been drawn between him and the extremist following of Johnson. Wood men see the contest from now forward as a battle between Wood and Johnson. Lowden has run in three neighboring States in each of which he was supposed to have especial strength, South Dakota, Minnesota, [his native State], and Michigan. In each he made a poor showing compared with the winner, and because of low vote-getting power he is regarded by both Wood and Johnson men as virtually eliminated. Only a sweeping victory in Illinois would have put Lowden in the running, it is contended, and the fact that in the Illinois primary last Tuesday Wood received better than one vote for Lowden's two is considered a good showing by the Wood backers.

Harding, they say, has not yet faced a primary test, but the lack of public response to the Ohio Senator's candidacy is held to have put him definitely in the background. Emphasis is laid on the point that the Republicans have shown in the primaries already held that they rally to emphatic men, that they want positive leaders with the fighting spirit. With the conservative and Old Guard representatives among the Republican candidates unable to rally popular strength, the choice in the future primaries, it is asserted, will be mainly between Johnson, the more radical type, and Wood, the moderate. The Wood men's argument is that Republicans in the conservative ranks of the party, in order to head off Johnson, will join the Wood column.

Assertions to the effect that the Republican Old Guard count on Wood and Johnson, in a fight of growing bitterness, to eliminate themselves by the time the convention meets, so that a standpat candidate may be selected, are not taken seriously. The candidate to be named, it is urged, must have shown vote-getting power or must be a progressive with an appeal to the people, and the primaries are pointed to as proofs of this. Entering the convention with more votes pledged to him than any other candidate, the Wood managers expect the General, after the first ballot, increasingly to draw the moderates and conservatives to him as against Johnson and to land the nomination.

All this assumes that General Wood will make a strong showing in the big primaries remaining. Those which will attract national attention, because of their crucial character, leaving out the two-sided contest between Johnson and Hoover in California, are Ohio, April 27; New Jersey, April 27, and Indiana, May 4. Nebraska's primary takes place this week. Wood, Johnson, General Pershing, and Robert E. Ross, a liveryman, will be the contestants. All sides are claiming the advantage in the campaign for the State's sixteen votes. General Pershing's announcement four days ago that he would accept the nomination changed the forecast that the fight would be entirely between Wood and Johnson; the General has a chance to win as a "favorite son." In the Massachusetts primary, April 27, the contest is between delegates who have declared for Wood and uninstructed delegates, Governor Coolidge having declared he was not a candidate, Wood followers expect victory in Massachusetts. On April 23 Wood and Johnson face each other in the Montana primary.

In New Jersey Wood and Johnson will be pitted against each other. Harding was in, but he withdrew. Wood is strong in New Jersey and he is expected to add that State's twenty-eight votes to his list by a handsome majority. Running for him as delegates at large are: Ex-Governor Edward Stokes, Chairman of the Republican States Committee; ex-Governor John W. Griggs, ex-Governor William M. Runyon and Thomas L. Raymond. In Ohio General Wood is again the only rival of a favorite son, Senator Warren G. Harding, Dan Hanna is making a fight for Wood in the northern part of the State and Colonel William Procter in the southern part. They expect to break well into Harding's delegation.

FOURSOME IN INDIANA

Indiana is the only State where the four candidates, Wood, Johnson, Lowden and Harding, meet in a primary. It will therefore be watched with special interest. In order to get Indiana's thirty votes the candidate must have a majority vote. Wood's organisation in Indiana is said to be one of the best he has anywhere, and his managers there assert that they will win the moral victory of a plurality if they do not capture a majority.

Senator Moses of New Hampshire, who represents General Wood at Washington, said the other day: "The contest from now on will be what I predicted it would be from the first, between Wood and Johnson, and when it gets to the convention I am confident that between the two Wood will be the choice of the delegates. I predict that Wood will have more than 400 votes on the second ballot and that it will be over soon thereafter. He will enter the convention with not less than 350 votes."

CLAIMS FOR JOHNSON

Senator Hiram W. Johnson's managers expect to go into the convention with not less than 150 votes. They have Michigan's 30 and claim North Dakota's 10, as Johnson was the only candidate. Some of the North Dakota delegates chosen, however, are claimed by the Wood men. The Johnson men expect to add to this the 26 votes of California at the preferential primary May 4. Other States they count on winning in the primaries are Oregon, 10; Idaho, 10; Nevada, 6; Montana, 8, and perhaps Nebraska, 16. They figure on 10 or 15 scattering votes from the South, several from Oklahoma, and four or five from Pennsylvania, Maryland's 16 votes are in the balance.

Johnson's supporters contend that the Michigan primary and the fact that Johnson, though not on the ballot, received more than 45,000 votes in the Illinois primary, show that it will either be Johnson or a dark horse, asserting that from now the inability of Wood to win will be more and more apparent. They expect to make it Johnson. They have two purposes in the campaign that remains: First, to show in the remaining primaries that Johnson is a vote-getter; second, to controvert the assertion that Johnson is an extremist dealing chiefly in destructive criticism and drive home their own notion of the man as an able administrator whose record as Governor of California revealed him to be constructive in the best sense. It is realised that a reputation for radicalism will arouse greater opposition in the East than in any other part of the country. It is a saying of Johnson men that their leader is not as radical as he talks, that when the responsibilities of an administrative office settle upon him he is as conservative as the best of them, that he is fair but firm with labor.

Whether or not his course would square with these claims, it is evident that among the Republican candidates labor has picked him out as "a friend to reward," and it is expected that radical labor men in New Jersey will work for him in New Jersey as they did in Michigan. He is on record for the Government ownership of railroads, and this assures him the backing of the railroad brotherhoods in the primaries.

Here, it is admitted, is Johnson's main difficulty to win the confidence of the East. In the New York primary, the only expression thus far—and that lacking in definiteness—the vote indicated that the East did not want Johnson. As he will not be in a New England primary, the only remaining State in the East which will pass upon him is New Jersey. This gives a large importance to the New Jersey primary so far as Johnson's candidacy is concerned. If he is badly defeated there, the set-back for him will at least match Wood's in Michigan. As he has entered New Jersey late, a good showing without victory might add to his strength.

Even with Wood more than 100 votes to the good in the convention, the Johnson men figure that their candidate will be in the position of advantage. Wood, by his course in challenging favorite sons in their own States, notably Lowden in Illinois and Harding in Ohio, will take to the convention a collection of bitter antagonisms. The counter-argument goes this way: Wood's chance to win the nomination was to round up enough delegates to capture the prize on the first ballot. Since Michigan, it is certain that he will be unable to do this; the first man to be eliminated when compromise is seen to be necessary will therefore be Wood. By that time primaries will have shown that neither Lowden nor Harding is available, and if the convention refuses to accept the California Senator, the Johnson men see the choice turning to some strong progressive who has not figured in the primaries, as, for instance, Senator Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin or Senator William S. Kenyon of Iowa.

Representative John A. Elston of California, the representative of Senator Johnson's campaign at Washington, said: "I think Johnson will have around 150 delegates, Wood about 300 and Lowden next with around 100. We think the showing made by Johnson so far is most impressive. Owing to organisation control, Johnson's only possible chance was in the free primary States. In an increasing way his power of appeal to the people, as measured by concrete results in vote getting, was shown in North Dakota, in South Dakota, in Minnestoa, and the Michigan vote capped the climax. New York was an experiment. The vote was small; it was not decisive."

Wisconsin delegates instructed to vote for Senator La Follette are counted on by Johnson men to swing to their candidate after the first or second ballot.

HOOVER'S CHANCES

Herbert Hoover, in the view of political judges at Washington, has but one chance to capture the Republican nomination, and that would be in some wave of excitement after the convention became deadlocked. Both the Johnson men and the conservatives will be primed against any such waves.

Disinterested judgment is that Hoover has not much chance of beating Johnson in California, although that State is recognised as one in which there has been strong support of the League of Nations. Especially is this so in the southern part of the State, and Johnson has made some good enemies in California. But it is recalled that Johnson carried the State by 300,000, that he has the organisation and the prestige of his big victory in Michigan, and that with votes behind him from other States Californians will see in him their opportunity to put a Californian in the Presidency.

At the same time, if a great popular wave in favor of Hoover showed up in the country just preceding the convention, there would be the chance of stampeding it for him. Neither the Johnson men nor the conservatives think anything will happen, and the Johnson supporters are confident of carrying California. Opposition to the Hoover candidacy among Republican leaders of all kinds is surprising. They cannot get over the fact that Hoover indorsed Wilson's appeal for a Democratic Congress.

Democrats are one in the opinion that Hoover by his recent announcement that he would accept the Republican nomination has absolutely eliminated himself from Democratic consideration. Those who sponsored him are now the most outspoken against him. It is asserted that in candor he should have declared his politics before Democratic leaders put themselves in the position of advocating his nomination by the Democratic Party. But Hoover is certainly the big interrogation point in the political situation. According to Michigan, the people want to get a chance to vote for him. Incomplete returns show that in both primaries 57,726 persons cast their ballots for him, though an active appeal to the electorate was made by three candidates on one side and one on the other. However, the defeat of the Hoover delegates in New York shows that wholesale conclusions may not be drawn from the support he received in Michigan. Some politicans in Washington profess to believe that he will yet be found at the head of a third party.

Governor Lowden's managers assert that considering the fact that their candidate made no campaign in Illinois, determining to rest solely on his record, the showing he made last Tuesday gives ample testimony of support by his own people and greatly strengthens his availability for the nomination. Lowden's supporters claim delegates in Kentucky and in other Southern States. Iowa's 26 votes seem to be all Lowden's. In the South the contest for delegates has been mainly between Wood and Lowden. There will be several contesting delegations from down there. It is not considered likely that Lowden will round up many more than 100 delegates. On the whole, his campaign so far has been a disappointment, upon comparison with early claims of his vote-getting power, and, as this test is now being made, he will not be in the position of a dark horse in the event of a deadlock between the two leaders.

Senator Harding, according to indications, will go to the convention with a smaller number of delegates than any one of the four who were most prominent at the opening of the pre-convention campaign. If he should capture all the Ohio delegates, a consummation not looked for by disinterested observers, he would have forty-eight. His campaign managers advance a claim to uninstructed delegates in the South, and with scattering delegates elsewhere, he may round up in the neighborhood of 100 delegates. Like Lowden's, his candidacy has not evoked broad popular response, and similarly has suffered in contrast to the vigorous methods of Wood and Johnson. However, since the Wood defeat in Michigan, Harding men assert that a weakening of the General's support in Ohio is apparent and they express confidence that a bad reverse is in store for Wood there also.

Other Republican candidates who are assured of the backing of their States on the first ballot are: Nicholas Murray Butler, New York; Senator Miles Poindexter, Washington; Senator Howard Sutherland, West Virginia, and Governor Sproul of Pennsylvania. Pershing clubs also are preparing to present General Pershing's name to the convention.

Among the active Democratic candidates, Attorney General Palmer was far in the lead, and the prospect that he would be an important factor in the convention seemed certain until he finished a bad last in the Michigan primary. It is known that the radicals fought him there and the wets, too, but the showing he made, even taking these facts into consideration, has raised the question as to his vote-getting ability. The earlier claim was that he already had more than 100 votes practically secured—76 in Pennsylvania, 6 in Nevada, 26 in Iowa, and 5 in New Hampshire. He may regain some of his lost ground in Georgia, where,

Reveries Of A Retired Rounder

BY A. MUGG (RETIRED), PER DAMON RUNYON

The other day I run into an old friend of mine by the name of Petey something, though what his other name is I never hear, and he is limping around on a pair of crutches, and looking much all in. This Petey's racket is following the races, and I am much surprised when he tells me he is now through with such matters for good and all. He says he is surely cured, and the reasons are a couple of broken legs.

It seems this Petey always has a bug for carrying a big accident policy on himself, because he figures that something is bound to happen to him sooner or later, what with traveling around the country on railroad trains so much, and giving guys losers on the races, and one thing and another, and he wants to have dough enough to care for himself when it happens.

So he carries this accident policy for many years, keeping it paid up even if he has to go hungry, but one day he finds that his policy runs out on him the day before when he is not looking, and he has no protection against accident. He is pretty much smoked up about this matter, and he gets to scrambling around here and there and finally he makes a scratch, which is a way of saying he raises some dough.

He is on his way to see the insurance guy to renew his policy when he runs into some guy who gives him a good thing in the fourth race which cannot miss, so Petey decides to hop down and get in on this good thing because it is much too good to be overlooked, and then hurry right back to town and take out a bigger accident policy than ever. He is just in time at the track to bet all the dough he has with Kelly, the bookmaker, but the good thing runs nowhere in the race and Petey is as flat as a pancake.

Well, of course, this is most discouraging, but along comes a guy who gives him a good thing which cannot miss in the first race on tomorrow's card, so Petey cheers up and figures he will go back to town and make another scratch and win himself a nice bet the next day and pay for that accident policy.

He borrows a dime or two off of somebody to ride home on the street car after the races, and while he and all the rest of the horse players are hanging by their finger nails to the side of the street car on their way home, along comes Kelly, the bookmaker, in his big limousine, and brushes Petey right off his perch, running over him and breaking a couple of legs for him.

Of course Petey cannot collect any dough on his accident policy, which is tough, but the real tough part of it is he is not able to go to the track the next day, what with being in the hospital, and unconscious, and one thing and another, and the good thing in the first race wins at twenty to one. Furthermore, it seems that Kelly, the bookmaker, gets a puncture in one of his limousine tires when he runs over Petey, on account of a safety pin which Petey has holding up his pants, and he is after Petey to settle for the tire.

So it is a very tough break for Petey all around, and he says he is plumb cured of playing the horses, but, of course, the chances are he will be back at the track giving his dough to Kelly, the bookmaker, as soon as he is able to navigate good, for it is very hard indeed to cure a horse player of playing the horse.

It reminds me of the time we almost cured a horse player by the name of Dakota Smith, who is ruined, by beating a 100 to 1 shot at New Orleans many years ago. Before he beats the 100 to 1 shot, this Dakota Smith is a piano tuner, or some such, and doing very good for himself, what with there being so many pianos in this country needing tuning. But after he beats the 100 to 1 shot he quits everything to follow the races, figuring he will do nothing else but beat 100 to 1 shots the rest of his life.

Naturally, he never beats another 100 to 1 shot, or many other shots of any kind for that matter, and finally he gets to be just one of the lads who be's around. He winds up like most of the guys who are looking to run a shoestring into a tannery. He winds up needing shoestrings.

Anyhow, one Winter we are all down at Hot Springs, and this Dakota Smith is there doing the best he can, and doing about as usual at it, which is not so very good. Thanksgiving Day is coming on, and we are all talking about what a great dinner we will have for ourselves on that day, when somebody hears Dakota Smith crack that he wishes he is home for Thanksgiving with his old mother in North Dakota. He says it is many years since he sees her, and she is getting pretty feeble, and he says he will give his right eye to be able to be with her.

But of course he is broke, what with tossing every dime he gets into the pool rooms which are operating around Hot Springs in those days, and not being very dirty when he first comes in, anyway, and he has about as much chance of getting to North Dakota, or having a Thanksgiving dinner either, as he has of beating another 100 to 1 shot.

Well, whoever it is that hears Dakota Smith moaning around tells the rest of the lads, and we feel very sorry about this matter, especially as there is some drinking going on when we hear it, and one and all are softened up no little. So we decide to chip in and send him home to his mother, because the way we look at it, we are going to have a wonderful Thanksgiving dinner for ourselves, and it is a terrible shame for a guy to be around on such a day without a dinner.

Furthermore, we decide that it is a great chance to cure Dakota Smith of playing the horses, because he is certainly one guy who has no license to be even trying to spell horse. So we tell him we are going to send him home if he will promise never to make another bet on a horse in his life.

Naturally Dakota Smith says this is fair enough, and we get him together a couple of yards, a yard being a way of saying a hundred bucks, and a couple of yards being a couple of hundred bucks, and he goes and buys himself some new clothes, and gets a bath, and one thing and another, and spruces himself up generally. The afternoon he is going away we are gathered in a pool room, and we figure he will be around to say good-bye, so we make it up among ourselves that while Dakota Smith is in the pool room no one will put down a bet, so as not to be reminding him of what he is giving up, and maybe leading him into temptation.

Sure enough, Dakota drops in by and by, looking most gallus, and we get around him to duke him, which is a way of saying to shake his hand, and to wish him good luck, and Dakota Smith says to us like this:

"Well," he says, "here I am on my way to buy my railroad ducket, and grab the old rattle for home and mother. I tell you what, men," Dakota says, "it will seem great to back myself into the old family stall once more and tear into that Thanksgiving dinner with all the trimmings and listen to my dear old mother's voice again. And," he says, "I will be thinking of you guys back here sitting down to a swell feed at the hotel, and I will be very thankful we all have good dinners on such a day."

Just then the guy at the telegraph ticker near the blackboard where they chalk up the entries and the betting prices at all the different race tracks in the country, sings out: "Emeryville," meaning Emeryville, California where they are racing in those days. "Bear Catcher, even money," he says.

This is the opening price of a horse in a race out there, and Dakota Smith rounds at once, which is a way of saying he turns and takes a peek of the board, for Bear Catcher is a well known horse, and very popular with one and all. But of course no one else moves, because we agree not to take any interest in betting while Dakota is around, although it is very difficult indeed not to take interest in betting when Bear Catcher is starting in a race.

"Bear Catcher, eh?" Dakota Smith says. "Well," he says, "all this is behind me, and I am never going to play another horse as long as I live. Here I am with over a yard in my kick, and all dressed up, going home to mother like a gentleman, thanks to you lads," he says, "and what a chump I will be to break my promise. Yes, sir, men," Dakota says, "you do not know how I look forward to meeting my old mother and to that Thanksgiving dinner."

Then the telegraph guy sings out again. "Emeryville," he says. "Bear Catcher, 4 to 5," which means that the horse is getting a good play at the track, and the price is shortening up. Dakota Smith rounds again, and takes a look, but goes on talking.

"It is years since I am home," he says, "and all these years I am just a bum wasting my dough against this racket, but never again for me. I am going home to my dear old mother," he says, "and all I can say is I hope you boys enjoy your Thanksgiving dinner as much as I am going to enjoy mine."

Well, to make a long story short, Dakota Smith is headed for the door, and we are duking him, and telling him so long when the telegraph guy sings out again. "Emeryville," he says "Bear Catcher, 7 to 10," which means the horse is getting a very good play indeed, and they are still cutting the price down. Dakota Smith is almost out in the street when the telegraph guy sings out once more. "Emeryville," he says. "Make Bear Catcher 3 to 5."

This is another cut, meaning that there is much betting, indeed, on Bear Catcher at the track, and Dakota Smith comes right back into the joint, pushing everybody out of his way, and outs with his whole bank roll and hands it up to the guy who takes the bets. And then Dakota Smith says to us like this:

"Bear Catcher, eh?" he says "Well," he says, "if the whole world is betting on Bear Catcher like this a guy is crazy not to be in on it. And," Dakota Smith says, "I may be down and out but I am not crazy."

Well, of course, there is much in what Dakota Smith says, as Bear Catcher is a very great horse in those days, even though he does not win this particular day and burns up all of Dakota Smith's dough. So the upshot of it is we do not cure Dakota Smith of playing the horses, and he does not get any dinner on Thanksgiving Day with his dear old mother or anybody else.

Furthermore, none of the rest of us got any dinner on Thanksgiving Day, because we are not crazy, either, and naturally we are not overlooking such an opportunity as Bear Catcher any more than Dakota Smith.

Candidates And Issues Still In Doubt

as the champion of the Administration, he has campaigned against Senator Hoke Smith. There is a third entry in the Presidential primary there April 20, Tom Watson. Reports coming to Washington are that the advantage is on the side of Senator Smith. The vote in Michgan, it is held, shows that Palmer has been marked out by labor as "one of the enemies to be punished." Undoubtedly his campaign is suffering from a bad slump, but his course in enforcing the law in labor troubles now confronting him may add new strength to him, and the opposition of radical labor may prove an asset. The death of Roger Sullivan in Chicago last Wednesday was a blow to his expectation of getting the support of the Illino's delegates without a struggle.

The prohibition issue will be a question on which the fortunes of several candidates will turn. New York and other Eastern States will fight for a wet plank and a candidate who is liberal on this question. Governor Edwards of New Jersey, who beat all the other Democrats in the Michigan primary, will be a leader at the convention in this fight, though it is not thought that he will develop any considerable strength for the nomination. Governor James M. Cox of Ohio, who will have the delegation of that State behind him, is classed as a liberal. He was a speaker at the Jackson Day banquet, as one of the prominent possibilities before the prohibition question became such an active issue.

Bryan, not expected to be a candidate, will make his chief fight in favor of a dry plank and for a dry candidate. Palmer did not suit him. He is said to have picked Secretary of Agriculture Edward T. Meredith.

Others who will be put forward by their States as candidates are Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska, Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma, Vice President Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana and John W. Davis of West Virginia, United States Ambassador to Great Britain. The Virginia Convention has instructed its delegates to vote for Senator Carter Glass for President, while the North Carolina Convention has indorsed Senator F. M. Simmons to be voted for in the June Presidential primary. James W. Gerard, ex-Ambassador to Germany, has South Dakota's ten votes.

Then comes William G. McAdoo of New York. He is regarded by disinterested observers as being in the strongest position of any of the candidates and the one most likely to obtain the nomination with Wilson avowedly out. His recommendation for uninstructed delegations is being largely followed, and it is said there is a numerous McAdoo following among the delegates and that party leaders are coming to be more of the opinion that McAdoo is the strongest man the Democrats can name. The business world as well as labor has confidence in him, his admirers say. Rumor also credits him with "Wilson backing."

To sum the Democratic side, with Palmer lamed, with Hoover out and eliminating the President, McAdoo looks like the man.
